Out:

Favreau, Cardin

In:

Trudeau, Chretien

Rising:

Turner, Gordon

OTTAWA — The Pearson cabinet has a swinging new look today following a shuffle in which Prime Minister

Lester Pearson revitalized his Quebec representation. Out went Guy Favreau, 50, president of the Privy Council and registrar general, and Lucien Cardin, 48, Minister of Justice.

In came Pierre Elliott Trudeau, 46, a wealthy, dashing bachelor, as minister of justice, and Jean Chretien, 33, as minister without portfolio. And John Turner, the 37-year-old lawyer with the Kennedy image, was promoted from minister without portfolio to registrar-general. Another minister without portfolio, Walter Gordon, 61, was promoted to president of the Privy Council. Both Mr. Cardin and Mr. Favreau resigned their posts because of poor health. Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons that Mr. Favreau will become a judge of the superior court of Quebec. Mr. Cardin's plans are unknown. In a tribute to their service, Mr. Pearson noted the "unselfish and devoted service to Canada of these two old and true friends of mine. "I benefited as prime minister very greatly indeed from the wise counsel and firm friendship of these two men,"

Host Post Vacated

Because the National Broadcasting Company has used reruns of old shows in the current television strike, Johnny Carson, host of the Tonight show, has told NBC he considers his contract for $200,000 yearly job broken. Network says "No."

Grits Load Lineup With Youth

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The key member in the new Pearson Liberal cabinet is a prolific left-wing writer and commentator who is noted for wearing colorful cravats instead of ties, and sandals instead of shoes.

Moreover, Pierre Elliott Trudeau says he will remain a swinger, and won't change his clothes.

Other key figures are:

● John Napier Turner, 37-year-old lawyer and Rhodes Scholar, who got more than a cabinet promotion—a major boost into the Liberal leadership race.

● Jean Chretien, 33, a young man on the move and second youngest cabinet member in Canadian history. (Charles Hibbert Tupper was three months younger when he was appointed in 1888.)

Tie Was Tip-Off

Posing for pictures with Trudeau after the swearing-in, Prime Minister Pearson suddenly said, with a big smile: "Did you hear what a bright young executive assistant said this morning? He said Trudeau must be going into the cabinet—he's wearing a tie!"

"And shoes," interjected John Turner. Trudeau, 46, smiled, blushed under his ski tan, and looked down at his conservative, dark blue garb, but allowed he would keep his swinger image intact.

But, the new justice minister added, "Remember it's the solicitor general who looks after swinging (hanging) now."

The Mount Royal member has impressive credentials: a law degree from Montreal, master of political science, Harvard, and post-graduate work at the University of Paris and London

School of Economics. In 1963, he bitterly assailed Pearson for accepting nuclear weapons. Trudeau is the second of Quebec's Three Wise Men (with Manpower Minister Jean Marchand) to make the cabinet. Still a backbencher is Gerard Pelletier. All backed Quebec's Quiet Revolution under Liberal Jean Lesage, but openly backed NDP policies at the national level, until swinging behind Pearson in the last election.

Mr. Trudeau, brilliantly bilingual, is a confirmed nationalist who argues that even a separate status for Quebec would be fatal to Confederation.

As justice minister, he will revamp the Criminal Code, administrative law and constitutional matters.

John Turner needed only experience and exposure to move from dark horse to serious contender in the leadership race.

Top Tories Tackle Same Hellyer Song

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, Tuesday accused Defence Minister Hellyer of making the same false statements over and over again.

He said in the Commons that the minister thinks that if he repeats something, no matter how false, often enough the public will believe it.

Gordon Churchill, another former Conservative defence minister, said he does not see how the Commons can carry on a serious debate on armed forces unification if it is going to be faced by statements by Mr. Hellyer which are "palpably untrue."

Admiral the Earl Mountbatten stresses importance of retention of identities of services, including ranks and uniforms, in classification of views of integration and unification—in a Colonial exclusive on Page 5.

Mr. Hellyer said he would reply at a later date to Mr. Harkness' "spurious allegations." He said he is sick of hearing the former minister's "repetitious nonsense" and "vague generalities" which he could not prove.

The exchange came as the Commons went into its second day of debate on the government's unification bill.

Mr. Harkness said he had already proved his statements by quoting figures of the auditor-general and those supplied by the defence department itself.

He said Mr. Hellyer has claimed that he was making big savings.

ONE EXCEPTION

But he had not saved the taxpayer anything. Defence expenditures had gone up every year, with one exception, since the Liberals had taken office in 1963.

The armed forces had 23,000 fewer men now than four years ago. There were not enough sailors to man all the ships and not enough soldiers to fill the infantry battalions.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had tried to show in the Commons defence committee, by use of a "false" chart, that expenditures for weapons had risen.

SMALLER PROPORTION

But weapons expenditures, as shown by the auditor-general's report, represented a smaller proportion of the defence budget in each of the last four years than in 1961-62 when the Conservatives were in office.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had made a deliberate attempt to deceive the public by saying recruiting last year was higher than in 1965 and 1964. Recruiting was slightly higher in 1965 than in the previous two years but they were the poorest years since 1950.

Michener Honored

'Prospect Rather Awesome'

By DAVID VAN PRAAGH

NEW DELHI (Special) — Daniel Roland Michener, Canada's new governor-general, said early Wednesday he hopes he will be regarded as the representative of the whole Canadian people as well as the Queen's representative in Canada.

He strongly defended Canada's constitutional monarchy in a changing world, and the Commonwealth idea of inter-racial co-operation. Mr. Michener talked to me of his conception of the role of governor-general in his office as Canada's high commissioner in India, the most populous member of the Commonwealth. He will relinquish that post in time to return to Canada before the opening of Expo 67 on April 28.

"One doesn't aspire to this role—it is not an elective office and it is not the kind one imagines for himself—and I am still a bit incredulous that this has befallen me," he said. He said the new post represents a "rather awesome prospect."

Symbol of Continuity

It was after 1 a.m. Wednesday in New Delhi when the announcement of Michener's appointment was made to the House of Commons in Ottawa by Prime Minister Pearson. While the announcement was not unexpected here, Michener never took it for granted.

He sat calmly in a chair in his comfortable office, which directly adjoins the high commissioner's residence, and put slowly but surely into words his reactions on being named the third Canadian-born governor-general.

"My wife and I are deeply conscious of the honor of being chosen by Her Majesty as her representative."

He explained, "The importance of the office of governor-general lies in its presenting to Canadians a symbol of the continuity of our government and the stability of our institutions."

"In that sense the governor-general, in addition to being the representative of the Queen, is the representative of the whole Canadian people. He stands as the symbol of the wholeness of Canada as one nation, which he can do because he is above party and regionalism."

Michener said he is aware that a debate is going on in Canada over the relative merits of

Natal Coalmen Follow Instinct to Mine

Cave-In, Death—Then Back to Work

Wear miner Arnold Webster

NATAL, B.C. (CP) — Many of Natal's coal miners swore off their trade Monday after an underground explosion which killed 15 men, but prepared Tuesday to follow "instinct" and return to the mines.

"Cave-ins and deaths," said John Hardy, 61, of Coleman, Alta., who left the mine five minutes before the blast, "but in a day or so you all go back in again."

Bud Morgan, 33, of Natal, whose rescue team hauled out four bodies, summed up the comments of many in this grimy Crowmest Pass town: "Hell, you can drive down a road and get killed." Meanwhile, preparations were made for funerals — a mass funeral was being considered for Thursday — and money began to pour into a disaster fund to assist the victims' families. Only one was single.

Shock still hung over this community of 300, destined to be closed within a year, following its first major disaster. Thirteen miners, aged from VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government Tuesday donated $25,000 to the Natal mine disaster appeal fund.

The donation followed a meeting between Premier Bennett and Mines Minister Brothers on the latter's return from Natal.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering federal aid to the families of the 15 Natal mine victims, Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

All Commons Acclaims Appointment

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — An RCAF Yukon pilot to New Delhi, India, on Monday to bring home Canada's governor-general-designate, Daniel Michener.

Mr. Michener will be sworn in as Canada's third native-born governor-general in the Senate chamber on Monday, April 17. Then he will inspect a guard of honor on Parliament Hill, step into a landau and be driven to his new home, Rideau Hall.

The appointment, a foregone conclusion, was acclaimed by all parties in the Commons Tuesday.

It ended the month-long guessing game about the successor to the late Governor-General Vanier.

In the Commons, speaker after speaker indicated that Mr. Michener has large boots to fill.

But they left no doubt that he could fill them.

Prime Minister Pearson is understood to have offered the job formally to Mr. Michener in a phone call to New Delhi on Sunday, March 26, the day after he returned from his Caribbean vacation.

Earlier Mr. Pearson had visited Mrs. Vanier, who had told him of her own plans to move to Montreal.

The prime minister's office is silent and embarrassed by the action of the Queen in jumping the gun and announcing the appointment of Mr. Michener an hour before it was announced in Ottawa.

The cause of the goof was the difference in time between London and Ottawa.

Little Old Ladies Do Get New Cars

CAR YARN: Now it can be told. GM dealer Newell Morrison was shutting up shop at his Douglas Street car emporium when a late arrival asked for a model in a color and style he had seen downtown.

Mr. Morrison asked jokingly if the customer would like a car driven by a little old lady. The client smirked at the "little old lady" bit, but Mr. Morrison took him downtown and stopped off at an apartment where he collected car keys from a little old lady. He told her, "Don't worry. The boys will bring you a new car tomorrow."

The customer liked the car and the deal was closed.

And that's how come Mr. Morrison's mother got a new car.

THAT JOB: It now seems a safe bet to predict Ron Worley will be leaving his B.C. Ferries job for the deputy leadership of travel.

Earlier suggestions that Godfrey Holloway will follow him from his Profile magazine job are out. Mr. Holloway says he has turned down an offer to join the government service.

He is enjoying himself too much to get involved.

COUPON CLIPPERS: Most women save coupons at one time or another, and as a result of eating a ton and a half of Crunchie Munchies over a period of a decade or so, they are able to get a magnificent angel food cake tin, normally retailing for 30 cents.

Now there is a coupon-saving campaign with a real purpose.

Harry Gold, chairman of the Pearson Rehabilitation Hospital indoor sports club, in Vancouver, is collecting Mark Ten cigarette coupons in order to get a free bus.

Mr. Gold wants a special bus with a power tailgate that will hoist patients in wheelchairs or walkers right up into the bus. It will cost a mere $90,000 coupons. So far Harry has been able to collect 40,000. Most have been gifts.

At the hospital there are 82 patients who are members of the indoor sports club. Of these, 95 per cent are in wheelchairs and the rest are in walkers.

Readers who smoke the brand may care to send their coupons to Harry Gold, who is still busy looking and filling coupon books.

THOSE BUTTS: Each time one of Her Britannic Majesty's ships put to sea, 11 men scurry below to don their green uniforms to carry out the wear tests.

The new uniforms, in dull green, are of a fine quality saratoga, but they are so secret their style and color are still classified. It's safe to say they are well cut, in the new shade of Hellyertrope.

***

VOTE WHEN: The Grits may call a federal election a lot sooner than even some of their supporters think.

Lucien Cardin and Guy Favreau have quit and there are seats vacant in Sudbury and Hull. Jack Nicholson will probably be the next lieutenant-governor of B.C. and Arthur Laing is keen on filling the senate seat of the late Stanley McKee.

With the high commissioner of India open and a couple of top ambassadorships soon to come vacant, this could leave the Grits a bit short in the Commons.

It might just be that Prime Minister Pearson will put the Tories on the spot either just before or just after their leadership convention in September.

***

THOSE CAPEPS: Members of the Solarium Junior League are taking their 1967 show Circus Capers out to the hospital Sunday morning to entertain the young patients.

Members of the cast have been warned not to express too much surprise when they are just how handicapped some of their young audience are. It's a little hard to harm it up out there.

***

PILL TIME: An observer on the drug scene reports his experience with pill prices. He went into a local store and asked for a headache pill by its generic name and was paid 65 cents on 100 tablets. It may not sound like much, but that was a clear 25 per cent saving.

Story-Seller Gauchie Having Little Luck

YELLOW KNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Bob Gauchie finally let reporters into his hospital room Tuesday, but refused to say much until today about his ordeal stranded alone on an Arctic lake for almost two months.

"I'll tell you tomorrow. I'm trying to sell my pictures, story and diary to an eastern publisher but I can tell you that just about now I wish I had talked to you fellows in the first place. I'm not having much luck."

LOW ON FUEL: Mr. Gauchie, 39, of Barrhead, Alta., was rescued Saturday night by two other bush pilots who spotted him by chance while flying over Samandere Lake, 267 miles northwest of here. He was last seen when he left Cambridge Bay, Feb. 2. His ski-equipped plane ran low on fuel Feb. 3 so he landed it undamaged on the snow-covered lake. The plane was down Monday to Yellowknife.

Now recuperating in Yellowknife hospital from loss of weight and frost-bitten toes, Gauchie said he is feeling well but would like to shave off the red beard he let grow while stranded.

"I couldn't eat that," he said. "It had been in the plane about 60 days, and besides, there was no water to put with it."

He also was critical of his employers' efforts to find him.

The co-owners said they spent two weeks at their own expense looking for him after an RCAF search had been called off.

His employers, Bill Smith and Merv Hesse, co-owners of Northern Mountain Airlines, were quoted in one report as saying Gauchie was not out of food when found and had the means to get a hot meal.

When he was found, a few packages of dried potatoes and beetroot were left.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three lip-reading experts viewing North Vietnamese films of two captured U.S. pilots allegedly confessing to atrocities found that nowhere on the film did the lips of the pilots match the accompanying audio dialogue, ABC news reported Tuesday.

The film was shown Monday on ABC-TV's Peter Jennings with the News.

The lip readers were shown a film obtained by Japanese sources that purports to show a news conference in North Vietnam in which two U.S. navy pilots from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea "confessed" to a number of atrocities.

AUDIO TAPE
There was no sound track on the film but an audio tape was supplied.

The pilots in the film have been identified as Cmdr. Charles Tanner of Tennessee and Lieut. Ross Terry of San Diego ABC said.

It was reported on the newscast that the audio tape contained two American voices who talk of deliberately dropping napalm on civilians. However, the expert lip readers, who viewed the film frame by frame, "could find no place where the lips of the downed pilots matched any of the dialogue on the audio tape containing the alleged confessions," the program reported.

SMALL TALK

The lip readers said the pilots "are making small talk in answer to questions about their age, the condition of their health and their desire to rejoin their families."

The lip readers said in one section where one of the pilots begins to remark about bombing so as not to hit people the filming stopped and then resumed. "The lip reading experts found this film interruption to be the case whenever the downed pilots made any reference other than small talk," ABC said.

CASEY, KENT
"It should be noted," the report continued, "that the same Cmdr. Tanner seen on this film was quoted in dispatches by the North Vietnamese news agency when he was captured."

"At that time Tanner reportedly told Hanoi he had two flying buddies who had refused to fly against North Vietnam. The names Tanner gave: Lieut. Cmdr. Ben Casey and Lieut. Clark Kent."

Targets in North Vietnam
Pounded in Massive Raids

SAIGON (AP) — Announcing the heaviest air raids in five months on North Vietnam, U.S. officers hinted Tuesday they expect the all-time high of 175 missions to be exceeded before the end of April. Monsoon storms are slowly giving way to clear skies.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and marine pilots, flying under the best weather conditions in weeks, hammered North Vietnamese storage areas, bridges, trucks and cargo barges in 147 missions Monday. It was believed more than 400 planes were involved.

Along with this came word of the destruction of the 30th American plane and the loss of another pilot in the air campaign that was launched at North Vietnam Feb. 7, 1965.

LOSSES COSTLY
The 500 planes cost an average of $2,000,000 each, making a total of $1,000,000,000. About 350 American flyers have been killed, captured or are missing in North Vietnam.

Meanwhile, a qualified American military source said Communist MIG fighter planes are responsible for the destruction of far more than the 10 U.S. fighter-bombers they are officially credited with shooting down over North Vietnam.

The informant said the supersonic fighters, which manoeuvre best at high altitude, have forced many American planes—the exact number undetermined—into dives that carried them into the range of Communist ground guns.

Britain Suing Oil Company

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government will sue the American owner of the tanker Torrey Canyon which ran aground last month and spewed thousands of tons of oil on English beaches, Prime Minister Wilson said Tuesday.

Wilson was speaking in the House of Commons on the incident which caused a national emergency and cost the country vast sums of money to fight oil pollution and in damage to beaches.

OIL CARGO SPREAD

The tanker ran aground on a reef off the southwest coast of England and immediately began to leak its oil cargo. Two weeks later it broke into three pieces, spilling more oil which spread over hundreds of miles of English coastline and spoiled popular holiday beaches.

Royal Navy and RAF planes finally bombed the ship and set its oil afire.

Wilson said the government has "already instructed the treasury solicitor to inform the owner's solicitors of our intention to institute proceedings against them for damages."

Earlier Tuesday a government report on the episode said the scale of damage in prospect is likely to be less serious than was at one time feared.

The tanker, wrecked March 18, was owned by a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California and was registered in Liberia.

Meanwhile in Paris, French officials said the coast of France apparently will be spared from oil leaked by the Torrey Canyon. The statement was made after a meeting of between Interior Minister Roger Frey and officials directed to keep an eye on the threat of pollution to beaches and oyster beds.

Diminished Image

ACCORDING TO WELL informed sources India is now readying herself to bow out of world affairs and relinquish any claim she might have to leadership in Asia—a claim which has been largely supported both by the West and the majority of emerging nations since the mid-1950s.

In that era India occupied a particularly proud position in the world in which she was accepted at moments of crisis as an embodiment of the international community's more civilized instincts and as a model of success for developing Asia and Africa.

In 1959 President Eisenhower echoed the sentiments of the world at large when he hailed India as "a triumph that offsets the world's failures of the past decade, a triumph that, as men read our history a century from now, may offset them all."

However, since those halcyon days much has happened to change the outside world's opinion of India. Among the factors contributing to the collapse of the Indian image is her continuing stubbornness over the disputed province of Kashmir, her policy toward Pakistan, her conquest of Goa and last but not least her developing domestic problems.

It is perhaps the latter situation that has done more than anything else to bring home to Delhi that influence and respect in the world is to a large degree but an extension of success at home.

Today India finds herself in the unenviable position of being in a state of undeclared war with both Pakistan and Red China, facing growing civil disturbances at home, and dependent upon outside aid to feed her hungry people.

That disillusionment with both India's internal and foreign policies is widespread among even the most responsible segment of its citizens—the civil service—is evidenced by the remark made not long ago by a senior government official to the effect that the ministry of external affairs should be abolished, thus saving India a large amount of foreign exchange from closed embassies and the trouble of participating in an arena in which it could at present hope neither to gain nor do much good.

A British observer who heard this remark says this: "That this sort of jest can be made in Delhi, where for so long external affairs was regarded as the senior ministry and India's active and beneficent role in world affairs was a staple of conversation and source of satisfaction, shows how much has changed here in the past few years."

Gloomy as this outlook might be, it may be said that if India determines now to come to terms with her diminished role in international affairs and concentrates her undoubtedly vast resources of intelligence and energy upon solving her internal problems, the time need not be too far off when she once again is able to take her place upon the world stage.

Pot and Kettle

WHEN PREMIER BENNETT boasts of the generosity of the British Columbia government to the municipalities of the province, he throws into his summation practically everything that could possibly be construed as "aid" to the local administrations—no matter whose the responsibility for the provision of services.

Thus the provincial share of education costs becomes, according to the premier, assistance to local governments. So does social welfare and health expenditure on people living in the municipalities. Likewise construction and maintenance of highways within municipal boundaries, apart from the Trans-Canada Highway. Even hospital care, both operating payments and construction grants, is listed as part of the province's local-government aid.

So it falls a little flat when Mr. Bennett takes offence at Prime Minister Pearson doing much the same thing, in relation to Ottawa's treatment of British Columbia.

In Vancouver last weekend Mr. Pearson listed $272,000,000 in federal aid to the province in the last fiscal year, including $45,000,000 for hospital insurance, $1,500,000 for highways, $8,000,000 in university grants and $3,000,000 in grants to municipalities, among other items.

This, says Mr. Bennett, is false figuring, and Mr. Pearson's speech was federal Liberal propaganda. Quite true, no doubt. But the assertion would come with more effect from one who had not previously, and consistently, demonstrated a similar notion of what constitutes "aid" to another level of government.

Long, Lone Vigil

THE FORTITUDE and ingenuity of that extraordinary bird, the bush pilot, have long been recognized. Add to these qualities in the case of Robert Gauchie an enduring patience which helped him survive for 58 agonizing days in the sub-zero weather of the Barren Lands.

They tell almost incredible tales of the hardihood of these men, who, in 1921, pioneered commercial flying in Canada's northlands with oil exploration around Norman Wells. There are many instances of pilots, seriously hurt, walking for miles through rough country to bring help for their passengers.

And their ingenuity is fabulous. It was a man named Fullerton who smashed the wooden propeller on his old Fokker when he nosed over on an ice landing. He made a new one by patiently carving pieces out of toboggan boards and sticking them together with glue made from moose blood.

They have lived and written a history unique on this continent and their names deserve to be remembered: Roy Slemmon, Punch Dickens, Bill Broadbent, Charlie Sutton, Ed Hubbard, Matt Berry, Ken Dewar, Roy Brown, Dick Smith, Stu Law, "Wop" May. . . It is a long list, too often started with tragedy, but representing an heroic achievement against formidable odds.

Robert Gauchie is another one of them, along with Ron Sheardown and his co-pilot Glen Stevens who rescued the Fort Smith flier.

It is typical of such men that, in their loneliness, they talk to the prowling wolves, as Gauchie did, but that they never lose hope of help from their fellows and keep a bag packed in readiness for rescue when it comes.

"Oh, just one of the poor guys who made all of this possible..."

Ammunition for Republicans

President Johnson's Tax Headache

By ANTHONY HOWARD from Washington

NEXT to the Vietnam war, the state of the American economy has become President Johnson's biggest political headache.

Democratic party managers no less than the administration's professional economists have suddenly awakened with alarm to the fact that if, as is widely expected, this year's budget clause raising income tax fails to get through Congress, the president in 18 months' time may well be asking the American people to re-elect him immediately after announcing the biggest budget deficit in the nation's history.

Headlines like "Federal Government $15,000 Million in Red" are scarcely likely to sound a rousing cheer to Democrats.

Party supporters across the nation—but their appearance now seems almost inevitable just as next year's campaign is getting under way. Two weeks before the opening of next year's Republican convention the U.S. Treasury is bound by law to announce the final results for the fiscal year 1968—and it is hard to see whatever their economic justification, how they can be anything but intensely politically embarrassing to the Democratic Party.

A number of factors has contributed to creating this situation, but the crucial element was almost certainly Mr. Johnson's own personal decision against imposing a tax increase last year. At the time this no doubt seemed shrewd politics (1968, after all, was itself an election year), but in retrospect it can be seen as having started off a whole damaging chain reaction within the economy.

The administration's troubles began in fact with its reliance on a policy of tight money instead of a tax hike to contain inflationary pressure throughout last year. As a brake on the economy this was temporarily effective, but a high price certainly had to be paid for it in terms of economic growth.

When in March business reported to the government that its total investment in plant and capital equipment would rise only 3.9 per cent this year (compared with booming increases of 15-17 per cent in the immediately preceding years), even the White House and the Treasury seem to have agreed that the process of holding back had gone too far. For almost immediately came the president's announcement restoring a 7 per cent tax concession for business investment that had originally been planned to remain in effect for a year, right through to the end of this year.

By itself this may well have been just the medicine the economy needed—but unfortunately as a piece of treatment it could not be regarded in isolation. The moment the president announced it the political right went up that it was totally unfair to give business a bonus while at the same time proposing to slap an additional tax on individuals.

The 6 per cent across-the-board income tax increase that the president announced in his budget at the beginning of the year always faced a hard struggle in Congress. Now, as a result of the investment tax concession, it is generally thought to be doomed. Politically congressmen and senators are understandably reluctant to appear to be giving to the rich while at the same time taking away from the poor.

But if the income tax increase does not go through, $5,000 million will immediately be added to next year's already high projected budget deficit of $8,000 million, raising it to the totally unprecedented level of $13,000 million (which in turn could easily increase to $15,000 million if the fall-off in business activity produces lower tax revenues).

It looks, in fact, as if this summer's tax bill is one measure that the administration cannot afford to lose. Unfortunately, however, it is becoming increasingly hard to make an economic case for it; unemployment may not have risen but all the other indices—industrial production, advance factory orders, even car sales—have shown a sharp decline in the past few months. On strict economic considerations it can plausibly be argued that what the U.S. economy needs at the moment is not a depressive but a stimulant.

It is a case that Republicans in Congress will not be shy of making—and for two very good reasons. Not only will opposition to the new tax increase inevitably bring them short-term popularity with their electors: if they succeed in blocking it, the result is bound also to give them a wonderful campaign issue for use in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Political memories for detail are short, and all that is likely to register with the voters is that the Democrats, and in particular Mr. Johnson, failed in the business of sound national house-keeping.

Parliamentary Reform

A Shake-Up in Sweden

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Stockholm

SWEDEN is going to shake up its democratic system. It will have one house of parliament instead of two. It will put a stop to filibustering, which can frustrate law-making, and for the first time it will accept parliamentary responsibility.

A new constitution has long been needed, for political development in Sweden has lagged behind social progress. Egalitarianism may be the aim of the country, but, say Swedish critics, the government imperfectly represents popular democracy.

A royal commission has for some years been designing a new constitution, and has now reported. Its work has every prospect of being made law within a few years.

In the present Riksdag (parliament), the lower chamber is elected directly every four years and the upper chamber indirectly for eight years. Cabinet ministers are not responsible to the Riksdag, and cannot be unseated. The government cannot be removed by a vote of no confidence. Elections are the only occasions when change is in prospect.

Staggered elections and the successive retirement of Riksdag members delays the fulfilment of trends in public opinion. A swing of 8 per cent against the ruling Social Democrats last autumn, caused a disproportionately small change in representation which will only be finally completed by 1972.

The single-chamber parliament now projected will be elected for three years by strictly proportional representation. The 384 seats of the present two chambers combined will be reduced to 260. Of these, 300 are to be elected by the constituencies with the remaining 50 distributed nationally to ensure that parliamentary representation is accurately in proportion to the votes cast for each party.

Small parties and splinter groups are to be suppressed by a qualification which requires a party to win 4 per cent of the total votes cast in order to sit in the Riksdag. The prime minister will continue to be the leader of the party with an absolute majority in the Riksdag, or somebody nominated by a coalition.

For the first time in Swedish history, parliamentary responsibility will be introduced, with ministers now answerable for their actions before the Riksdag. Moreover, governments will have to resign on a vote of no confidence, a simple majority being sufficient.

Filibustering will be ended by limiting the permitted length of individual speeches, while a system of expert committees will be introduced, both ideas having the aim of dealing with parliamentary business swiftly and efficiently.

What has not been touched is the question of the monarchy. This is a task force made up of a relatively small group of experts, brought together, soon in, given the problem and told to produce the answers. It is the technique being used to produce the white paper on foreign ownership. It is being used in the Woods Inquiry arising out of the railway strike. It could be used with value in such a controversial matter as armed forces unification, where the need for a neutral or near-neutral fact-finding panel is becoming obvious. It could have done the job in broadcasting, where commission after commission has reported and then seen its report gather dust on government shelves. It could achieve in weeks what the royal commission on women's rights will probably not achieve in years.

It is perfectly suited to times of rapid change. It provides something Parliament, or even the civil service generally, lacks—the most expert knowledge available in a particular field. It has the advantage, furthermore, of using the practical rather than the theoretical expert, and would relieve much of the load which is imposed these days on a relatively small group of academics. The uses to which the system could be put are as broad as the issues which confront Parliament. But above all its value lies in providing quickly in organized form the basic material on which public issues can be debated and judged.

Force of Experts

From The Montreal Star

THE B and B commission was appointed July 12, 1963, made an interim report in February, 1965, and is expected to make a final report some time this year. The Carter commission on taxation was appointed in August, 1962, reported in February, 1967 and might be asked upon some time in the next two years. The Bernier commission on St. Lawrence pilotage was appointed in November, 1962, and has yet to report. The MacPherson commission on transportation was appointed in May, 1959, reported finally in January, 1962, and was asked upon the very broadest sense of the term, in 1967. The system—need followed by action, followed by investigation, followed by report, followed, sometimes, by legislative action—becomes increasingly cumbersome.

It is not necessarily the fault of the commissioners. Often the raison d'être for the commission has ceased, and with it the urgency to do the job; often they are given inadequate staffs or cannot get adequate staffs; often the speed of change in the matters under investigation makes obsolete the basis on which conclusions can be drawn before they can be put into an alternative. President Kennedy was the first to make large scale use of it, but it is also finding more frequent support in this country.

This is a task force made up

'Overmature' Trees

IN the recent issue of the Islander, March 26, was an article by Ron Jones on the 30,000-acre Victoria Water District. I'm not sure whether, in discussing the timber in the Water District, it's Mr. Jones or the foresters for the Water District who are responsible for the typical remarks of the lumbering interests:

"The forest has passed maturity, is now in the decline ripe for insect attack and eventual blowdown."

Then there are a few remarks about the possibility of fire in this over-mature forest, and in turn erosion.

If there is one agency on the face of this earth responsible for converting beautiful forest land into a desolate wasteland it is man. It seems most unlikely that we will ever see erosion in our forests except where the natural cover has first been brutally destroyed by man.

If our wilderness and parks were left to the judgment of those who see in each tree just so many 2 x 4s, the "over-mature" timber in Strathcona Park would simply have to be logged off before it declined and deteriorated. Nor would we ever be allowed to stand in awe before the 1,000 year old giants in MacMillan Park—these are very "over-mature" from the logger's point of view, and should have been cut at least 600 years ago.

In a recent issue of the Wildlife magazine is the following quotation from Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan, Dean of Graduate Studies, UBC: "You have heard lumbermen who wished access to the park timberlands speak in pained tones of overmature timber that must be salvaged before it becomes worthless. There is no such thing as an overmature tree, except in the language of commerce."

"Youth, maturity, senility and death are normal and necessary attributes of the forest, each in its turn contributing to the vital processes of the ecosystem, each successively adding to the natural variety of living organisms that is the core of what we seek to maintain."

In any case, to suggest that mature timber will likely lead to ultimate erosion is certainly unwarranted. If timber in the water district has to be cut because of the revenue it brings in let's say so, and then evaluate the damage on that basis and not because the timber will not otherwise.

'Infringement'

By tradition and history the universities of our nation have been the centres of intellectual development and freedom. Associated with the search for knowledge has grown an awareness of the role of the university as a finger on the pulse of our society. It is here at the universities that the greatest scrutiny of our society occurs. The questioning of society, its members, its structure, its values, and its faults are traditional in the atmosphere of questioning and learning at our universities.

It is only natural that in this scrutiny controversial opinions and judgments will be advanced. The task of others in the universities, their administrators, and the general public is not to silence those with different ideas and ideals, but to judge their proposals for merit, truth, and value, and then to accept or reject these proposals.

It is on this basis that the sole criterion for judging a university teacher must be academic excellence. To judge a man by his political, social, or religious beliefs is a contradiction of the university tradition as well as an infringement on his rights as a citizen of this nation.

Long Overdue

The Carter income tax report underlines the urgent need for a capital gains tax now. It is wrong and quite unfair that the patient wage or salary earner should have to pay on every penny of his hard earned income. Shareholders and bondholders income has to be reported to tax authorities so that it may not escape income tax. Why then should the speculator be allowed to buy mining or other speculative shares (most often just promotion without real value), then sell them on a rise and take an unearned profit out free? This is not investment it is usually pure gambling and does real investment immense harm. America has had a capital gains tax for several years. England has followed suit. We must realize Americans only invest in Canada to make a profit and they certainly do just that. With a capital gains tax of their own they would understand our position. Do we have to give them profits with both hands? England doesn't.

Speculators tell that they have losses. They do at times, but

Views on Integration, Unification Clarified in Colonist Exclusive

Mountbatten Favors Keeping Service Identities

Last month, in one of the most publicized sessions of the House of Commons Defence Committee, Vice-Admiral Herbert B. Rayner, last chief of the naval staff, appealed for the continuance of the Royal Canadian Navy in a distinctive uniform and with a titular head to speak for it and set standards of sea-going fighting efficiency.

Under cross-examination, Admiral Rayner quoted Lord Louis Mountbatten as being in favor of this concept. This was hotly denied on all sides, including by Defence Minister Hellyer.

An interview with Lord Mountbatten on the CBC, which had been taped much earlier when he was in Canada, appeared to support the Liberal view.

However, senior naval officers maintained they were well aware of Lord Louis' views, and Commodore Harold V. W. Gross, R(N) wrote from Victoria asking for a statement.

After a delay, due to an extensive tour of the Far East, Lord Louis replied as follows:

By ADMIRAL THE EARL MOUNTBATTEN

When I was the Chief of the United Kingdom Defence Staff on a visit to Canada in 1965 and again when I had left this appointment in 1966 I was asked for my views by the Canadian press, radio and television.

Since I held two inter-service commands in the Second World War (Combined Operations Command and South East Asia Command) I have been an ardent advocate of unified command and integrated administration of the services.

I firmly believe that the steps taken in the recent reorganization of the British Services on the right lines.

Briefly this has meant the abolition of the separate service ministries (the Admiralty, War Office and Air Ministry) and placing the staffs in a unified Ministry of Defence.

The defence planners, administrative planners and operational staffs have been placed under the direction of the Chief of the Defence Staff, but they represent their separate services in producing joint papers and orders.

The service intelligence staffs have been completely integrated and the strategic communications of the services are being integrated.

Now that the political ministers who were responsible one for each service have been replaced by ministers responsible for functional matters, such as personnel, logistics and production for all three services, the integration of administration has been started.

In the operational commands, such as the Far East, the three separate service commanders-in-chief, of four-star rank, have been replaced by fleet, army and air force commanders of three-star rank under a unified commander-in-chief of four-star rank.

He is in complete operational command but his administrative responsibilities are still very limited. We have had an admiral, then an air chief marshal and now a general filling this post.

Few people still oppose the integration of arrangements for pay, food, clothing, furniture, equipment, etc., since this must be a more economical way of providing them.

In fact I believe the British reorganization, although much disliked and opposed by many senior officers at the beginning is now accepted as reasonable and more efficient and economical.

In the British reorganization care has been taken to preserve esprit de corps and morale and those traditions which help to maintain this in the services and fighting units.

It has been accepted that to achieve this the three services must retain their uniforms and ranks with an identifiable professional head of their service. The idea of a single uniform and rank structure was also rejected as undesirable and unnecessary.

There was some talk of taking the uniform and ranks of one service and imposing this on the others but the idea of a man in say army uniform with an army title arriving at a foreign port in command of a warship was generally felt to be so ludicrous that it was not pursued.

The general cut and color of naval uniforms are internationally so well known that a sailor from any one country can readily be recognized as a sailor in any other country.

Sailors the world over take great pride in this and so in their own services do soldiers and airmen. No compensating advantage could be seen in attempting to impose so unpopular a change.

Unified command at the appropriate level is exercised by an officer from any one service, wearing his own uniform and using his own service rank (assisted by an integrated staff) who commands all units of the three services placed under his command.

These were the views I expressed or intended to convey when I was asked to explain them to the Canadian press, radio and television. Nothing has happened or change those views.

African Summit Minor News

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY
From London

Five radical African presidents opened a conference in Cairo Tuesday. It would have been important news a few years ago.

Now the headlines are not big: This is seen in London as a measure of how disenchanted the world has become with Africa since the independence march began in Ghana with bright promise 10 years ago.

With Sierra Leone now apparently firmly under military control, 10 of the some 30 independent African countries south of the Sahara have come under rule by soldiers. No independent African country has changed its government by the democratic use of the ballot box.

The new Sierra Leone rulers have appointed themselves collectively representative of the Queen, sacking the governor-general without bothering about niceties.

The "Young Colonels" of Nigeria appear to be brushing civil war by an eyelash.

Some observers say Africa is in a mess from the Sahara to the Limpopo, border between Rhodesia and South Africa.

For the first time since the apartheid-teaching Nationalist party took power in 1948, South Africa has managed to make a trade pact with a black Africa independent country — Malawi, ruled by the eccentric Dr. Hastings Banda.

Hard-headed diplomats are not shocked at the turmoil, contradiction and bloodshed in Africa. They say, rather, that it is a wonder Africa has done as well as it has considering the size of her problems.

Just as war leaders are often unsuitable for peacetime rule, so the black messiahs who led the independence march were not necessarily the right men for the long haul of government.

The soldiers who have taken command at least seem to be minding their own business. Unlike some predecessors with grandiose plans of a united states of Africa, the new men are tackling the bread-and-butter problems.

They know now that the attainment of independence was the beginning, not the end, of the African revolution which is continuing in the political, economic and social fields.

The old European masters left a hodge-podge of countries, divided by senseless frontiers that ignored racial or tribal groupings.

Talk of tribal warfare sounds primitive and stupid in Western ears.

In West Africa, though, to speak of tribes is to speak of peoples or nations. The Hausa tribe of Nigeria equals the population of Canada and spills into several countries. On the other hand, some countries have fewer citizens than Montreal or Toronto.

Experienced diplomats are not horrified that the Westminster system has failed to stick in Africa, generally being replaced by the one-party state. They point out, for example, that Tanzania's president, Julius Nyerere, has worked out some form of democratic elections within the one-party system.

Harmless or Dangerous?

Radicals Control UN Colonial Group

By LOUIS B. FLEMING
From United Nations

A small group of the more revolutionary nation appears to have consolidated its control over the 24-nation colonialism committee of the General Assembly.

Through this committee, a handful of nations have been able to direct most of the UN decisions on non-self-governing territories, taking positions which are admittedly extreme and, to some observers, irresponsible.

There is nothing secret or sinister about the takeovers. The self-styled progressives have asserted their dominance almost without opposition. The moderate African and Asian nations repeatedly have refused open resistance to the radicals. And the procedure has been given legitimacy by the willingness of the United States and Britain to remain on the committee despite increasing reservations.

Some diplomats dismiss the activities of the committee, along with some of the other less realistic resolutions of the General Assembly, as harmless, as a convenient safety valve for the pent-up frustrations of the formerly colonized people of Africa and Asia.

But others see an increasing danger to world security in the activities of the committee for two reasons:

● By its activities, the committee lends support to the most radical elements of the anti-colonialist campaign, building up the very elements which are in general suffering setbacks in Africa and in Asia.

● By its single-minded dedication to the cause of independence, the committee is discouraging serious thought about alternatives urgently needed for the world's "mini-states."

Committee critics have found some comfort recently. For one thing, Afro-Asian solidarity within the committee is deteriorating. The Afro-Asian members split on two of the first three key votes this year.

For another thing, there are more moderates now on the committee. Only three of the 12 Afro-Asians would fall into a sort of "red guard" radicalism. And in African and Asian delegations, many of which operate with few instructions from home, the individual character and integrity of a diplomat counts for much.

Yet another comfort for the critics is that Britain and the United States are less timid. They both wish they had done what France did when it refused to join the committee. But last year Britain summoned the courage to boycott the committee's swing through Africa and this year the United States is thinking of doing likewise.

The committee chairman is John Malecela, the 32-year-old ambassador of Tanzania, who appears to be the brightest and most articulate chairman in the five-year history of the committee. He is one of the more uncompromising African radicals at the United Nations.

During the nine months when the General Assembly is not in session, Malecela becomes, in effect, the voice of the United Nations on colonial affairs.

To his credit, he has exercised his authority without prejudice. His statements, however, fit the pattern of the worship of absolute independence as the aim of all political subdivisions.

The implications of the committee's preoccupation with independence are staggering when it is appreciated that a majority of the 51 territories under the surveillance of the special colonialism committee have less than 100,000 people each. One of them, Pitcairn Island, has 107.

The majority of the committee members in recent months have indicated their belief that only the United Nations can be the agent to approve or disapprove the method of self-determination.

But a recent study showed that some 60 territories have won self-determination without any UN involvement, while only 16 have come to self-determination after some UN relationship.

Italy May Free 'Rome Butcher'

By GEORGE BLACK, FROM ROME

Unofficial soundings are being made in Rome for the release of the German war criminal, Herbert Kappler, who is known to Italians as "the Butcher of Rome."

Kappler, a former SS colonel, now aged 62, is serving a life sentence for his role in the massacre of 335 Italians at the Ardeatine Caves as a reprisal for the killing of 32 German soldiers by resistance fighters in March, 1944. Kappler has been 22 years in the military prison at Gaeta near Naples.

His cell, furnished with modest comfort, contains a new reel scenes from the trial in Munich of his wartime commander, SS-Major General Wilhelm Harster. Harster was jailed for 15 years for his part in the killing of 2,354 Jews in Holland — including Anne Frank, the schoolgirl who kept a now-famous diary.

Kappler told recent visitors from Germany that Harster's trial can be used to reopen his own case. I understand that tentative approaches through the Vatican about Italian willingness to consider such a move have already been made.

If he is set free, Kappler says, he will walk in penance, praying for the souls of the men he killed, from Gaeta jail 100 miles to the Ardeatine caves.

Scientists Use Scotch' To Measure A-Pollution

By TONY CLIFTON, from London

A team of Glasgow University scientists measuring atomic pollution in the atmosphere has come up with a new radioactive dating technique which can be used to determine the age of Scotch whisky.

They have been studying the increase of the radioactive isotope carbon 14 in the atmosphere since the beginning of atomic testing.

One of their problems was to calculate the carbon 14 level in any given year in the past. This is done by measuring the carbon 14 content of any vegetable material, because plants absorb the isotope from the atmosphere in the form of carbon dioxide.

The problem was finding preserved plants of a known age. The team, led by Dr. Alan Walton, a chemistry lecturer, had the inspired idea of using whisky, which is made from barley. The date when this was grown is known.

The chemists found that the radioactive content of each whisky from 1954 differed. Now they have a standard for each year. They can test unblended whiskies, compare their radioactivity with the figures, and say whether a Scotch is as old as it is claimed to be.

They are now working on the problem of analyzing blended whiskies which are mixtures of various years.

The scientists have found that their results are on the whole encouragingly accurate.

Tourist Lure

Let's Float West

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Courtenay Haddock told members of the Trade Industry group Tuesday, "We might be a lot better off on Vancouver Island if we were 600 miles further out in the Pacific."

Mr. Haddock was speaking on tourist promotion to a meeting at the Old England Inn.

He added that the tourist group was like a church that had burned its mortgage "as soon as it's paid off, the members start to fight or just drift away."

DISCOUNT

Mr. Haddock went on to explain that there was still a great deal of work to be done by the committee and suggested that it might be a good idea to offer all American visitors a 10 per cent discount on U.S. funds as a promotional gimmick. He said he was given the suggestion by the mayor of Palm Springs, who was here recently.

In other business the group decided to:

- Conduct a tour for employees of businesses catering to the tourist trade to familiarize them with local attractions.

- Take speakers and slide presentations of Victoria attractions to other Island centres on an exchange basis.

- Ask all business and government offices to replace faded and worn-out flags and banners by May 24.

Longest Minute For Girls

There will be 38 minutes of suspense Thursday night at the Empress Hotel.

For precisely one minute, each of the 38 Miss Victoria Quest entrants will speak to about 100 guests in the preliminary judging. The competition is conducted by the Victoria Jaycees.

The five judges will decide during these one-minute talks, mostly on the girls' ambitions, who will be the 10 finalists.

In a dry run Tuesday night, the girls were told not to try too hard.

"You will be examined on your poise, personality, interests, charm and speaking ability. Be calm and relaxed, and don't try too hard," said Lorne Whyte, chairman of the Miss Victoria pageant committee.

At the end of the gruelling 38 minutes, the names of the 10 finalists will be announced.

The grand finale will be held during the Jaycee Centennial Fair in the Curling Rink, May 15 to 20, and the winner announced on Saturday night, May 20.

Winter Races Wind Up

Fourteen Royal Victoria Yacht Club crews completed Sunday off Sidney in the last race of the club's second annual winter series.

First three positions on Sunday and in the series were: Jeremy Hewitt in Saga, Peter Coomb in Doxy II and Theo de La Miere in Tandem.

Eight Cal 20 yachts in the club's fleet competed in a separate winter series, won by George Dufour in Galeana. Second was Peter Young in Windless Two, third was Rosemary Bullen's Slum.

Angry Pupils Spurn Sex Rooms in Schools

Lesage

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish Pupils' Central Organization has angrily rejected as "completely idiotic" a teacher's suggestion that high schools install "sex rooms" for pupils.

Tore Robertsson, 24, said he was disappointed at the rejection. He said schools should "arrange premises for pupils who need sexual love during school hours, but I'm afraid the time probably isn't ripe for such a radical idea."

QUEBEC — Liberal opposition leader Jean Lesage will demand an explanation at a caucus today of Quebec Liberal MPs why he wasn't invited to a weekend meeting of 20 of the 50 MPs. Party president Eric Kierman and Rene Levesque, both ministers in the former Lesage cabinet, said the meeting tried to work out a detente between Quebec nationalist and Canadian federalist party factions.

Woody Allen's former wife, actress Mia Farrow, wants $1,000,000 from NBC and Allen for holding her up to public ridicule in his TV routines.

OTTAWA — Diplomatic relations have been established between Canada and Romania, External Affairs Minister Martin announced.

CHICAGO — Democratic Mayor Richard Daley won a fourth term by a huge margin of 770,000 votes to Republican John Waser's 270,000. Write-in candidates Dick Gregory, the

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

A MAN WHO IS rapidly approaching his 60th year, did something to bolster the morale of older golfers when he shared the medal honors in the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open Match play championship at Victoria Sunday.

George Bigelow, who admits to 58 years, not only equalled the 71s recorded by youthful pros Vaughan Trapp and Bill Wakeham, but did the long back nine in three under par 34 while each of the big-hitting younger men took 37s over the same trail.

Some people say that Bigelow is now playing as well if not better than he ever did and there is no doubt that he keeps himself in amazingly good shape.

Several years ago, Bigelow reached the final of the Island Open, and there were many who said of the "old man" that this was his last chance, when he failed to account for Norm Boden.

However Bigelow must still be regarded as one of those in the running to win his first open, and his progress in the match-play event will be followed with great interest.

According to the handicap book, the 160 entrants for the qualifying round of the Island Open should all have been pretty good players.

Only those with handicaps of 10 and under had a chance of making the tournament.

But when it came to recording their scores more than half of the field put up a miserable show, and not one of the qualifiers in the handicap section was able to match the net par 70 for the course.

Admittedly the greens and the tees were not too good, but the players were using winter rules — which meant no bad lies on the fairways.

Yet 24 players returned no scores; 13 of them shot between 98 and 101; 25 scores were returned in the 85-99 bracket; and 50 were between 80 and 84. Only 34 were in the 70s.

It makes one wonder. How good is our handicapping system? Or maybe it would be fairer to say, how many players comply with the basic requirements of that system?

On the score of results in the qualifying competition, it would seem there are many who are flatter themselves into thinking they are better golfers than they really are.

In the next few weeks — we hope — the local clubs will be abandoning the winter rule regulations which seem to apply to us nowadays for most of the year.

Their departure will not be lamented, because winter rules are nothing short of a nuisance to all those who want to play golf as it should be played, and are not afraid of playing a shot from a bad lie.

But it is in the rules interpretation that winter rules cause most trouble.

The ROGA rules of golf make no provision for the use of the preferred lie, although they give the clubs some latitude to make local regulations to suit climatic and other conditions of an unusual nature.

The result is that when a club hangs up a notice "Winter Rules" it opens the door for all sorts of interpretations, if not abuse.

The only way in which golfing anarchy can be controlled in such circumstances is if each club clearly defines what it means by "winter rules."

Locally, the general understanding is that the lie may be improved for any fairway shot but not for a shot played from the rough.

Here is snag No. 1. The rules of golf make no differentiation between rough and fairway.

When the ball is on the fairway in what way may the player proceed to improve the lie?

(1) may he move it by hand, or only with the club-head?

(2) may he clean the ball as he is permitted to do under ROGA rules on the green?

(3) may he move the ball two, four, six or more inches from its original position, and if so may he improve his stance as well as his lie by doing so?

I always shudder when some irate golfer calls me up and asks for a ruling on a winter rule incident. There is no rule in the book which covers the argument, and the best one can do normally is to give a verdict on equity.

The other day one of our better players sent a ball into a sea of mud that was obviously not fairway. It was embedded deep in the mud, and he claimed he was entitled to improve the lie under local rule. His opponents said no, that the winter rule applied only to fairways whether the ball was embedded or not.

In this, the opponents were correct for if it were permitted to improve the lie of a ball in the rough on the grounds that it was embedded, a new can of worms would be immediately opened, and players would be picking up their balls from deep rough to test—and how other could they do it?—if the ball was embedded.

What the player should probably have done was to declare the "sea of mud" into which his ball dropped to be casual water and this would, of course, give him a free drop under the provisions of Golf Rule No. 23 (no winter rule difficulties here.)

The definition of casual water is—any temporary accumulation of water which is visible before or after the player takes his stance and which is not a hazard of itself or is not in a water hazard.

Jimmy Simpson one of the Royal Oakwood evergreens scored his sixth hole in one at the weekend.

He holed out at the 154 yards fourth hole using a No. 5 wood. He was playing in a four-ball along with Russ Dunnett, George Davies and Al Wescott.

Hull Stays Unknown Quantity As Reay Hurls Verbal Curves

From CP and UPI

Conflicting statements were attributed to coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawks yesterday, leaving unanswered the question of whether Bobby Hull would be ready for the first game of the National Hockey League semifinal against Toronto Maple Leafs in Chicago Thursday night.

"Bobby's knee will be okay for the opener," Reay was quoted in one story out of Chicago, apparently dispelling doubts about the Hawks' 52-goal scorer being able to start the series.

However, another story said that Reay indicated that Hull might have to sit out at least the first game.

"He may not play Thursday," Reay is quoted. "We'll have to wait until Thursday to find out. You have to think of the whole series, not just one game."

Hull, who suffered strained ligaments in a game against Detroit Red Wings which forced him to miss the last three games of the schedule, also seemed uncertain about the opening game.

"It's not quite right," he said. "But it never is after an injury. It doesn't feel 100 per cent and I can't stop and start on it."

Reay, who knows he will be without defence man Matt Ravlich for Stanley Cup play, is also worried about the condition of forwards Chico Maki and Doug Mohns.

Maki, who worked out yesterday, has been out with an injury to an Achilles tendon which has been slow to heal.

AFFECTS ENDURANCE

"It's all right when I start out," Maki said, "but it pains after a few minutes. It affects my endurance more than my movements."

Mohns, who missed yesterday's workout, is suffering from a bad back, which tightens up when he is not active. However, he is expected to be able to play on Thursday.

There was speculation about Reay's choice of goalkeepers for the series.

Because he played Dennis DeJordy in the last five games of the schedule, many observers felt that Reay was freshening up Glenn Hall, his 35-year-old veteran, for the playoffs.

STATISTICS SUPPORT REAY

Reay admitted he had deliberately given Hall a rest but said that "You can be sure that Dennis and Glenn will split the work in the playoffs. Both have been so good that it doesn't matter which one we use."

Statistics certainly bore him out. Hall and DeJordy combined to win the Vezina Trophy with DeJordy having a 2.37 goals against average and Hall showing a 2.38 average.

While the Hawks were keeping in trim at home, the Leafs were going through a routine in Peterborough which called for two workouts a day and plenty of time watching reruns of movies which showed that the Hawks had outscored the Leafs 55-37, in compiling an 8-4-2 record against their semifinal opponents.

"I hope they're so sick of this place that they'll be glad to get at Chicago," manager-coach Punch Imlach growled.

Imlach discounted the statistics which showed the Leafs lost six and tied one of the seven league games played in Chicago.

"So what if we didn't win in Chicago all season — we have to stop losing sometime."

Imlach could take comfort from the fact it appeared as if Thursday's Stanley Cup semifinal between Chicago and Toronto will be televised on Channel 2 and 6 starting at 5:30 p.m.

his club would be at full strength for the series.

"The injury picture is better than I figured it would be," he informed. "Larry Jeffrey's shoulder separation" turned out to be just a bad bruise, Frank Mahovlich's knee is okay, George Armstrong is shaking groin and ankle injuries and Marcel Pronovost should be ready despite a bruised instep.

Leafs were not talking openly about Hull's injury but they all know his condition will be a big factor in the series. Hull scored 12 goals and picked up six assists in the 14 games against Leafs.

Adding extra spice to the series is the fact that Reay is the man Imlach fired nine years ago when he added the coaching duties to his managerial portfolio at Toronto.

Canadiens Frisky As Francis Frets

Montreal Canadiens, who finished the National Hockey League season with an 11-game unbeaten streak which put them in second place, had an impressively-frisky workout Tuesday as they prepared for the first game of their semifinal against New York Rangers.

Canadiens were gloating in an excess of playing talent after a season in which none of their players managed to play the full 70 games.

Forward John Ferguson and Bobby Rousseau were the only Canadiens to avoid sidelining injuries but they served three and two-game suspensions, respectively.

EVERYONE READY

But everyone is ready for the playoff start and Canadiens feel they are in the form which last season won them both the league championship and the Stanley Cup.

Coach Toe Blake has protection at all positions. He has his choice of three goalkeepers in Rogatien Vachon, Gump Worsley and Charlie Hodge, has Carol Vadnais as an extra defenceman and extra forwards in Dick Duff, Gary Peters and Jim Roberts.

Blake's problem at the moment is deciding between Roberts, an outstanding penalty-killer, and Duff as his 19th player.

Because he has four right-wingers in Claude Provost, Yvan Cournoyer and Leon Rochefort, Blake was inclined to go with leftwinger Duff.

"He's a money player," Blake said.

FRANCIS WORRIED

In New York, manager-coach Emile Francis of the Rangers was worried about his club's late-season slump and the season's record, which showed Canadiens ahead 7-5-2.

Rangers, who led at one stage of the campaign and for a long time seem destined to end no worse than second, were beaten, 5-1 and 8-0 in their last two games and wound up fourth.

"We've got to get back to good skating and forechecking, the way we were earlier in the season," Francis said. "The goalkeeper can't do it all by himself."

But it was on Ed Giacomin that the Rangers were counting the most.

"If," said Francis, "I had to single out one man responsible for getting us into the playoffs I'd say it was Ed Giacomin."

Francis will defend her junior girls' title at the Crown Zellerbach Trophy slalom at Green Mountain Saturday.

Busy Chuvalo Adds Willie To Kayo List

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Fourth-ranked heavyweight George Chuvalo of Toronto scored a TKO in 1:02 of the third round over Willie Bessmanoff of Miami Beach before 3,716 fans Tuesday night.

The Canadian contender kept alive his hopes for a title bout with Cassius Clay, pending the latter's draft status, by scoring his 11th straight victory by knockout. His record is now 46-12-2.

The victory brought new demands from Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, that Chuvalo was ready for Clay but that Clay was ducking his fighter.

"Last November I received a faithful promise that Chuvalo would be in a title bout with Clay," Ungerman said.

"Since then, they have kept us on a string despite George's 11 straight knockouts and our offer guaranteeing him (Clay) a $250,000 purse to fight in Detroit."

At 217 pounds, Chuvalo completely carried the first round and midway in the second staggered his opponent with a right. Bessmanoff, at 183½ pounds, pulled himself together, took more punishment with severe left hooks but weathered the round.

Then in the third Chuvalo connected with a left hook and Bessmanoff hit the canvas. He got up at eight, was hit with two lefts and a smashing right to put him down for another eight count. When he got to his feet, the referee stopped the bout.

While the Hawks were keeping in trim at home, the Leafs were going through a routine in Peterborough which called for two workouts a day and plenty of time watching reruns of movies which showed that the Hawks had outscored the Leafs 55-37, in compiling an 8-4-2 record against their semifinal opponents.

Buckaroos, Totems Favored As Patrick Cup Race Starts

Portland Buckaroos and Seattle Totems start the Western Hockey League semifinals at home tonight favored to meet in the final for the Patrick Cup, won last spring by Victoria Maple Leafs.

Buckaroos, the first club to win three consecutive WHL championships, meet Vancouver Canucks in the semis for the third straight season. Totems play Oakland Seals in the other best-of-seven semifinal.

Canucks, a surprise contender, had trouble with the Buckaroos all season, getting only one point from the first nine games of the two clubs played. But Vancouver won the last three games to instill at least some doubt into the series.

TOTEMS FINISHED STRONG

Totems ended the season as the league's hottest club, setting club records by being unbeaten in 11 straight games and scoring nine straight victories during the streak. They also set a third club record by getting 85 points for their second-place finish.

However, the Seals were also clipping along at the finish, taking fourth place from the Leafs by losing only two of their last eight games, one after a playoff spot was clinched.

Totems had a 5-4-3 edge over the Seals during the season but had a 44-32 edge in goals scored.

SECOND GAMES FRIDAY
Second games in both series are billed Friday night with the Totems again at home but with Vancouver as the site in the other series.

Individually, the big accomplishment of the season was that of Guyle Fielder in winning his ninth scoring championship. The spindly Seattle centre had only seven goals and 30 assists at the halfway point of the 72-game schedule. But he scored 13 goals and set up 41 others in his last 36 games for the season's total of 91 points, which was two more than garnered by Portland's Art Jones.

San Diego's Fred Hiltz, who tied a league record by scoring five hat-tricks, led goal-scoring with 45 counting shots. Fielder, of course, led in assists — for the 12th time — with 71.

Goalkeepers Don Head of Seattle and Jim McLeod of Portland also had noteworthy seasons.

Head, who posted a 2.73 goals-against average for the 44 games he played, became the all-time WHL leader with a career goals-against mark of 2,817. Gump Worsley, at 2,827, was the previous leader.

McLeod, who failed in his bid to beat Worsley's 2.40 for a season, ended up as the league leader with 2.44 for the 41 1/3 games he played—the all-time second best.

But for a bad start, McLeod would have had a new record. He gave up 27 goals in his first seven games but in his last 34 games his goals-against average was an amazing 2.16.

Penalty leader for the season, with the lowest total since Pete Durham finished on top in 1953-54 with 157 minutes, was Jim Watson.

The San Diego defenceman had 158 minutes, just comfortably ahead of Seattle-forward Earl Melheim and Portland-defenceman Connie Madigan. Both had 147 penalty minutes.

In Hospital

Jack Nicklaus, general manager of the Victoria Maple Leafs, was reported resting comfortably at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night. He was taken to hospital Monday night after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Nicklaus Has Worries Heading Into Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus is more concerned over his scattered shot drive than the threat of mumps as he prepares to go after his third straight Masters golf title, starting Thursday.

"I'm fine—I'm sure I'm not going to get the mumps now, although I'm not out of the danger period yet," the 210-pound slugger from Columbus, Ohio, said Tuesday.

"Right now, I'm more worried about straightening out my driving. I haven't been hitting the ball well all year."

Nicklaus, 27, who never had the mumps, was exposed to the disease March 19 when he visited a fellow pro Gardner Dickenson after the Jacksonville Open and found Gardner's three small children all had the disease.

"I got out in a hurry, but the doctor suggested I take a couple of shots," Big Jack said. "The incubation period is from 10 to 21 days. It's now been 16. That means I have five more to get out of the woods."

But I really don't think there is any danger."

TOUGH OPPOSITION

Asked what players he expected to offer the strongest competition, the defending titleholder, a 6-1 co-favorite with Arnold Palmer, said: "The same four or five guys—you can name them."

He apparently referred to Palmer, Bill Casper, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros and Gay Brewer, all high on the favored list.

Jack acknowledged that he always looked over his shoulder for Palmer, his chief rival for world golf honors. The two of them have won seven of the last nine Masters, the last five in a row.

"I always figure if I beat Arnie I can win and Arnie figures if he beats me he can win," Nicklaus said. "But remember you've got 80-odd guys out there."

The field, teeing off Thursday over the 6,900-yard, par 72 Augusta National course, will number 83. Christy O'Connor, Irish pro, withdrew because of an injured leg. Play Thursday will begin at 10 a.m. EST.

City Trapmen Place Well In U.S. Shoot

Four members of the Victoria Gun Club, H. Bates, D. McCall, J. Day and D. Beaumont, finished in the top 10 in the first round of the B.C.-Washington trap championships at Everett, Washington, over the weekend.

The second round will be fired in Vancouver in June. Ricky Bates won the Saturday handicap event, hitting 94 out of 100 birds. D. Noble and B. Thomas tied for fourth in the Sunday handicap with 93 out of 100.

Argonauts May Settle For Restic

TORONTO (CP)—Joe Restic, assistant coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, may take over as coach of the Toronto Argonauts replacing Bob Shaw.

Lew Hayman, managing director of Argonauts, said Monday he has talked to Restic and that Restic is interested.

"He's our first choice, if he'll come," said Hayman. "There is no conflict over contract, or the authority he would have. But there are some family problems to work out, like moving up here full time and so forth."

Restic has spent five years in charge of the Hamilton offence. Restic rejected a pitch from Montreal Alouettes last year.

Shaw resigned about three weeks ago and went to New Orleans Saints. He had been managing coach since last October.

Argonauts are currently 1-10 in the Eastern Conference.

Restic is 35 years old and has been coaching since 1962.

He played for the Toronto Argonauts from 1958 to 1962.

Baby Saved, Home Lost

A frantic mother dashed into a flaming house on the Patricia Bay Indian reserve Tuesday and carried her one-year-old son to safety. The house was destroyed in 15 minutes.

Mrs. Sally Ann Bill was visiting neighbors on the reserve on West Saanich Road when her daughter Clara, 3, alerted her that the house was ablaze.

The baby, Robin, received second-degree burns to his arms and was taken to Rex Haven Hospital for treatment. There was no one else in the house when the blaze started. Firemen speculated an oil heater explosion might have kindled the blaze.

The home of David Bill was the only new house on the reserve. It was finished last fall. Sidney and North Saanich volunteer fire department rushed to the scene but didn't have a chance. The blaze claimed everything the family of five owned except their lives.

furniture for the burned-out family.

Mrs. Smith said she had 38 clothing items for her family. Her husband takes size 18, and children's clothing is needed to fit a three-year-old girl, a boy of two, and a one-year-old baby. Clothing and furniture and utensils can be taken either to the Smith home or be picked up in Victoria, if donors call 556-3395.

Government House Ceremony

Honor for Policemen

Two Esquimalt constables will be honored by the Order of St. John at Government House Saturday morning, for their part in the rescue of children from a fire on Esquimalt Road last New Year's Day.

Also being honored, Saturday afternoon, will be Premier Bennett and Labor and Education Minister Peterson.

Constable Stuart William Rhodes will be given a meritorious certificate and Constable Douglas Sproston will be given a certificate of honor. Presentation will be made at 9 a.m. by Ian MacLaren, chancellor of the order.

At 3 p.m. in Government House, Lieutenant-Governor Peakes will conduct the investiture of 36 men and women being admitted, or promoted in the Most Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

He will be assisted by the chancellor and Brig. T. A. Johnston, priory secretary, both of Ottawa.

Premier Bennett has been named a Commander Brother and Mr. Peterson an Officer Brother.

Also present for the occasion will be two former lieutenant-governors of the province and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ross.

Constable Rhodes' citation reads:

"This meritorious certificate is awarded to Constable Stuart William Rhodes who at great personal risk entered a blazing home to rescue two critically burned and unconscious children, so one of whom he administered artificial respiration on Jan. 1, 1967, at Victoria, B.C.

"For his disregard for his personal safety and his resourcefulness and determination in locating and rescuing these children under hazardous circumstances, Constable Rhodes is highly commended."

Constable Sproston's citation reads:

"This certificate is awarded to Constable Douglas Sproston who by means of a knowledge of practical first aid and alertness in promptly rendering a resuscitative breathing of a young girl removed injured and unconscious from a blazing home in Victoria, B.C., on Jan. 1, 1967."

Charges Revive Welfare Hassle

By A. H. MURPHY

A row which has been smoldering for more than a month boiled up again Tuesday with charges of verbal abuse of welfare recipients, punitive treatment by officials, and cruelty.

In a letter to Mayor Stephen and the members of city council, Mrs. Donna Langstaff, president of the Low-Income Cooperative of Greater Victoria, said four of the co-op members have submitted written testimony of abusive treatment from staff members of the Victoria welfare office.

Within the last six weeks, the letter added, three social workers have volunteered evidence of "clients" being "verbally abused and treated punitively by the Victoria staff."

Other accusations:

● Mothers of growing children, ashamed of being dependent on the community, are further humiliated at having to wait hours "in the poorly appointed and crowded waiting room of our city welfare office" to pick up their monthly cheques.

● The welfare office has "regularly reported many clients' names to the city police department."

● Because of the inadequacy of allowances (30 per cent below the accepted level for decent living) recipients have to live in slum-type houses, go regularly without food in the last days of the month and find the purchase of transportation, recreation, clothing and shoes a severe burden.

● The city rarely and grudgingly gives "coverage" allowances for people in need. Amplifying the complaints, the letter charged officials took a cynical attitude toward clients and displayed little knowledge and no understanding of their plight.

In a series of recommendations, the co-operative urged that the city, because it pays only 10 per cent of the welfare cost and because it has "not properly cared for the needs of the poor," return the administration of welfare to the province.

BETTER INFORMATION
If this is not possible, it urged the city to endorse principles enunciated by the recipients "right" to welfare, an abandonment of punitive, distrustful attitudes, and better information for the public.

"Overage" allowances should be liberally given, the letter stated, and monthly welfare cheques should be mailed to save recipients the embarrassment and hardship of having to wait for them.

SPECIAL EXPENSES
The city should immediately begin payment of monthly subsidies of up to $100 for special expenses incurred by recipients going to work or school.

The letter urged the practice of sending recipients' names to police be stopped at once. It also suggested social welfare recipients be allowed to use all civic recreational facilities and public transportation services free of charge.

If there is doubt that clients have been subjected to abuse or punitive attitudes, the letter stated, an investigation should be held to bear evidence. Members of the co-op executive volunteered to speak to city council if more information or recommendations are needed.

Council had decided to use the canon as indestructible climbing toys, not as war symbols.

It was decided to take no action on the letter.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

The California brought no English mail and only a few letters and papers from San Francisco.

The fleet, however, got its letters. Capt. Oldfield having telegraphed to have the bags brought up. What will Government do in the matter?

Caroline F. Clarke, a former resident of this place, has recovered $5,000 from a San Francisco millionaire, as damages to her character. Most disgusting disclosures were made by the witnesses.

Four Days in May

Busy Stay Here For Alexandra

Plans have been approved for Princess Alexandra's four-day B.C. visit, the official centennial royal visit for western Canada.

She and her husband, Hon. Angus Ogilvy, will arrive at Vancouver airport at 12:15 p.m. May 18. She will open the B.C. International Trade Fair there before coming here.

OPEN STADIUM
May 19 the couple will attend Victoria Day ceremonies at the legislature buildings and a provincial luncheon, then open the new Centennial Stadium and present a guidon and colors to the British Columbia Dragoons and the Royal New Westminster Regiment.

Before attending a Government House ball for young people that evening, Princess Alexandra will visit servicemen and their wives at Work Point Barracks.

RED CROSS CENTRE
May 20 the princess will return to Vancouver, open the Vancouver centennial museum, attend a civic luncheon and participate in a sod-turning ceremony for the B.C.-Yukon Red Cross Centre.

The couple will then return to Victoria where the princess will attend a mess dinner given by officers of First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, and her husband will attend a University of Victoria dinner.

May 21, they will attend Sunday services at Christ Church Cathedral before leaving for Vancouver, Banff and Calgary.

City Weighing Athletic Park Name Change

A proposal to change the name of Royal Athletic Park to McPherson Park will be submitted to city council at its next meeting April 13.

If council gives its consent, the name change will be made at the official opening of the reconverted athletic field on May 30 when the touring championship British soccer team, Chelsea, plays an exhibition game here.

Part of the $2,000,000 bequest to the city of the late Thomas Shanks McPherson was used to finance the reconversion job on the park.

"There doesn't seem to be any historic connotation to the name 'Royal Athletic' and I am sure that Mr. McPherson would have liked to have the new field named after him," Mayor Hugh Stephen said Tuesday.

Ald. Robert Baird observed that dropping the word "royal" might bring on repercussions.

"Well," observed the mayor, "notice of our intention will be given in the press and there will be lots of time for horror-struck letters before the meeting of city council."

SIGN WAITS
Choice of the new name will govern the lettering on a cast aluminum sign which will serve to identify the park. Lettering will be eight inches in height. The sign will cost about $300.

The city is prepared to water the hanging flower baskets for merchants in the 708 Block Yates Street Association, but will not help in any other way.

Parks Administrator Herbert Warren said baskets in the canopied block were smaller and more numerous than elsewhere in the city.

The 1967 budget will provide $1,000 for the continuation of the city's downtown tree-planting program, committee members decided.

Taylor Holds the Key

Students Decide Today On Sit-In Protest

Students of the University of Victoria today will likely vote on staging a 24-hour sit-in protesting the administration's dismissal of three faculty members.

The sit-in, if it happens, would see students jamming the third floor of the building where university president Dr. Malcolm Taylor and Dr. Alex Wood, dean of arts and science, have their offices.

The resolution will probably go before a mass meeting of students to be held at noon today in the university gymnasium. Dr. Taylor will go before the students to explain the administration's stand on the issue.

BOYCOTT?
Late Tuesday the action was given initial approval by the student council at a special meeting.

The council also approved other resolutions which must go before the students today for ratification.

They call for the resignation of Dr. Wood, ask the graduating class to boycott convocations

Parents, Teens Meet Thursday

A meeting of parents and teenagers to discuss programs for teenagers will be held in Norway House, 1310 Hillside, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Organizer Mrs. Joan Price said guidance counsellors from all over B.C. and heads of Greater Victoria municipalities would attend.

ceremonies, and express lack of confidence in the faculty for not pressing for explanations from the administration.

David McLean, student council president, said that whether the resolutions go to a vote before today's mass meeting depends largely on what Dr. Taylor says.

In other developments Tuesday:

● The Canadian Association of University Teachers issued a statement clearing the university administration of a charge of violation of academic freedom.

● Dr. Charles Tarlton, who made the charge, called the CAUT statement "inaccurate and irresponsible." He threatened to make public the secret report if the CAUT does not amend its statement.

● A joint faculties meeting of senior administrators and teaching staff discussed the issue for two hours but took no action.

CONTRACT ISSUE
The issue revolves around the non-renewal of contracts of three faculty members: Dr. Charles Tarlton, Joseph Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

Tarlton and Schwartz, three other teachers who resigned in protest, plus student leaders have charged that the firings were motivated by personality differences, mainly with Dr. Wood.

NO VIOLATION
No reasons have been given for their dismissals, Tarlton and Schwartz have maintained.

Professor J. B. Milner of Toronto, head of the CAUT academic freedom and tenure committee, issued a statement which said:

"The committee has concluded that there was no violation of academic freedom in the affair, and that the university had the right to come to the decision that it did, and that it did so honestly."

"The committee has recognized that the procedures followed in arriving at the decision were seriously open to question in a number of respects, and has recommended to the university that changes be made in its procedures for dealing with renewal of appointments."

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as endorsing the principle of one appeal once a year for all private health, welfare and allied community needs and has asked a number of representative civic groups to support its stand.

The resolution was made public Tuesday by Courtney Haddock, chamber president, who asked other local groups or individuals who agree with the chamber's resolution to make their support known in writing to Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Mr. Haddock said he was pleased to receive a copy of the letter sent to the mayor by the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria supporting the single United Fund principle.

"The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has for some time been concerned about the steadily increasing number of fund-raising drives taking place throughout the Greater Victoria area," he said.

Most were for services and equipment necessary to the well-being of the community and "our concern should not be interpreted as condemnation of the fund-raising organizations concerned or the aims and objectives they are seeking to achieve," he said.

The present multiplicity of separate drives has an adverse effect on efficient collection and on the effectiveness of any community-wide planning to put these funds to the best use.

Chamber Seeks Endorsement Of Single Appeal, Once Yearly

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as endorsing the principle of one appeal once a year for all private health, welfare and allied community needs and has asked a number of representative civic groups to support its stand.

The resolution was made public Tuesday by Courtney Haddock, chamber president, who asked other local groups or individuals who agree with the chamber's resolution to make their support known in writing to Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Emergencies Up by 550

St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals treated 4,163 people in their emergency wards last month, up 550 from March of last year. The Jubilee reported 2,150 emergency admissions and St. Joseph's 1,633.

Cannon Fire Turned on 'Voice'

Esquimalt Coun. J. W. Bell Tuesday night snapped back at the Voice of Women organization in Victoria, and suggested they should help in community activities rather than run the community down.

"They're just nit-picking," he told council's parks and playground committee. "Why don't they get out and do something constructive and contribute to the community?"

The committee was considering a letter from Voice of Women president Mrs. Dorcas Blair, in which she asked council to reconsider its decision to refurbish two First World War cannons and place them in municipal parks for children to play on.

In her letter, Mrs. Blair accused council of showing lack of imagination.

These war symbols from the unfortunate past, she said, had no pertinence for today's children. Violence could not continue to be exploited for entertainment, pleasure or fun.

"The Voice of Women," said Coun. Bell, "have taken a lot upon themselves to judge what is or is not good for our youngsters or for other people."

"I wouldn't want to send a young man into the boxing ring with no idea of what a boxing glove looked like, and I don't want our youngsters to grow up with no idea of what a cannon looks like."

"This won't do our young people any harm at all, and we should remember that these things have a history, and are part of our national heritage."

Coun. Edward De Costa said he felt the organization had a certain point, but the major fault in the distribution of war symbols lay with department stores.

He noted that the organization had not had much success in stopping the sale of war toys.

Council had decided to use the canon as indestructible climbing toys, not as war symbols.

Farmer-Gray

Maive and White Theme Of St. Alban's Wedding

St. Alban's Church was the setting for a pretty double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Jo-Anne Marie Gray and Mr. Robert Thomas Farmer. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Gray, 2303 Quadra Street, and the late Mr. W. A. Gray, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Farmer, 1664 Burton Avenue.

Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated at the evening wedding.

The bride was lovely in a floor-length, empire styled gown of train of tulle and tulle with tulle underskirt. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline edged with tiny seed pearls, and lily point sleeves in lace. A four-tiered veil misted to the bride's shoulders from a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls belonging to the groom's mother. Easter lilies and trailing ivy were in her cascade bouquet.

The Misses Judy and Diane Gray, bridesmaids for their sister, and Miss Diana Lynn Gray, bride's niece, as flower girl, were in matching floor-length gowns of pale mauve crystal tulle in empire style.

They each wore a dainty mauve velvet bow headdress with matching tulle and carried cascade bouquets of pink mauve chrysanthemums and pale yellow freesias. Pearl pendant necklaces, gifts of the bride, complemented their ensembles.

Mr. William E. Farmer Jr. was best man for this brother. Mr. Robert Mitchell and Mr. Marvin Lane ushered at the ceremony.

A three-tiered cake, made and decorated by the groom's mother, centred the head table at the reception which followed. Mr. Stuart B. Harford proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon up-island the new Mrs. Farmer wore a two-piece rose heather tone wool suit with matching hat, pale pink gloves and brown accessories. A white gardenia corsage complemented her ensemble.

The newlyweds will make their home in Burnaby, B.C.

The engagement is announced of Frances Thomas-set, eldest daughter of Mrs. Thomasset, 3262 Shelley Street, and the late Mr. Gaston Thomasset, to Mr. Hugh Alexander McLeod, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston McLeod, Kars, Ont. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m., Saturday, April 29, in Christ the King Chapel at Armed Services Base, Esquimalt.—(Jus-Rite)

Civil Servants Feted

R.C. Government Employees Association hosted a party for retired civil servants, in the Douglas Building Cafeteria.

The guests were entertained with a mixed program of singing, dancing and orchestral numbers by Mrs. N. McClelland, Mrs. Graves, Mrs. Brouse, the Misses Wendy Tebo, Valerie Smith and Daphne Harris and Earl Sheppard, accompanied at the piano by Kay Lyne, all government employees.

After the concert, bingo was conducted by Mr. Bill Ingram.

Here for Wedding

Mrs. Mabel Coldwell travelled here from Omaha, Nebraska, for the recent marriage of Jo-Anne Marie Gray and Mr. Robert Thomas Farmer. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Harford and Miss Penny Harford, Qualicum Beach; Mr. and Mrs. V. Lamborne, Nanaimo; Mr. Marvin Lane, Port Alberni; Mr. and Mrs. J. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Gray, Mr. R. W. ## Field Highly Competitive

Reputation, Skill, Experience Vital to Success in Fashion

By JEAN SHARP
CF Women's Editor

TORONTO — The field of fashion, with all its outcroppings, encompasses one of Canada's largest industries. Though its glamour jobs are few and fiercely competitive, they act like a magnet, drawing people to the field, and a good many of them wind up doing jobs they hadn't known existed.

Laraine Scott, chief instructor for the fashion option at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto, says if you are interested in fashion, you should find out something about the field and how qualified you are before you commit yourself.

"You should consider whether you are really creative. If you are, you should think about the production end, the actual production of the clothes. You will have to go to a big centre for these jobs — Toronto or Montreal in Canada, New York, London or Paris. These are highly competitive jobs. You must be prepared to fight for what you want and to live with, almost live for, your work."

MAY NEED PATRON
Mrs. Scott says working conditions and low salaries often put off the beginner who hopes to work as a designer in Canadian garment factories.

She says she usually tries to dissuade girls who want to be designers in their own custom shops, or at least recommends they try to get work in such a shop before they decide.

"Canadian women are not too couture conscious. You need a reputation, skill, experience, a good business head and usually a patron to give you a lot of financial backing."

The Ryerson course, part of the school's home economics department, concentrates largely on training for retail jobs and requires students to get working experience while they are taking it.

"If you are interested in design," Mrs. Scott says, "don't take a general course, go to a good design school."

"If you are interested in retailing, you need retail and merchandising courses. This is what we give here. You must have sales experience. Any experience in sales work matures young people, they begin to know what it is to handle people."

Somewhere between the two are the counselling, coordinating, promotion and advertising jobs that may call for talent and training as an artist, photographer or copy writer. They may take detailed knowledge of some special area, such as textiles. All require knowledge and a sense of what's current in fashions.

NEW PROMOTION JOBS

"Many girls are interested in fashion promotion, which is sales, but in a different way. There are few of these jobs, and they are hard to get into."

Promotion might mean a job in a retail fabric department as consultant, dealing directly with customers. It might involve coordinating fashion shows, organizing the garments and accessories.

There are people who work with pattern companies, fabric firms, other types of manufacturers and associations. They travel, talk to sales people about their products, set up training programs or fashion shows, work with the press, women's groups and retailers to promote the products.

The companies prefer people who have had some experience for these jobs. You should be older to convince people."

The jobs in advertising are in agencies, big retail stores, catalogue companies.

The other main outlet is teaching. There the requirements are the same as in any field, specialized training plus teacher training.

Mrs. Scott recommends a book, Your Future in the Fashion World by the New York Fashion Group, as a guide to someone considering such a future.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think this problem is too goofy to print. I do need your help.

Every night before I get into bed I set my alarm clock. After I turn the light out I begin to have doubts — "Did I set the alarm or didn't I?"

Now mind you, Ann Landers, I know very well I set the alarm, but I am not satisfied until I turn on the light and check at least three times.

Can it be that I am cracking up at the age of 17? Please answer soon because I am not getting any better. — FLIPPED OUT

Dear Flipped: Almost everyone has some secret little compulsion. This is yours. Here is a gimmick that might help you beat it. The next time you set the alarm clock, put a rubber band around your left wrist. When you begin to have doubts, feel for the rubber band. It will serve as evidence that you did indeed set the alarm.

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed in Wall Street Warrior Number Two's reply he said "As far as sex is concerned, forget it, that went dead in a dry martini."

I would like to know, WHOSE martini? His or hers? This has been the basis for quite an argument between me and a friend. He says liquor intensifies the sex drive of a female but it diminishes the sex drive of a male. I say liquor intensifies the sex drive of both male and female. Who is right? — OPEN TO ELUCIDATION

Dear Open: Alcohol does not intensify the sex drive of either male or female; it simply removes the inhibitions. This does not mean booze makes people sexier, it merely means it impairs the judgement and people are inclined to do things they would not do if they were sober.

Individuals who have had a great deal to drink may find they are unable to function sexually because the booze has knocked out the mental machinery and no messages are reaching the brain.

Dear Ann Landers: Your letter to the girl who had epilepsy entitles you to the heartfelt thanks of every person in the world who has the illness. You have done innumerable services for all kinds of people, Ann, but no service can be greater than giving an epileptic the courage to face his illness without shame.

Three Years ago I was told I had epilepsy. After I got over feeling sorry for myself I thanked God I didn't have anything worse. But you can't imagine the change in people's voices when they discover you are an epileptic. I was so devastated by the reaction of my close friends that I decided never to tell anyone again.

Please, Ann Landers, mention this subject from time to time. You have a rare opportunity to educate the public in a way that no one else can. God bless you. — ONE WHO CAN'T EVEN SIGN HER INITIALS.

Dear One: I have received hundreds of letters from epileptics who expressed gratitude for an understanding of the illness. My thanks to all of you for your generous comments. If anyone wants educational material, including literature, films and general information, write to The Epilepsy Association of America, 111 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10010.

To Meet Growing Needs

Many Changes Planned For St. Mary's Priory

"We are entering into an exciting era in the development and growth of St. Mary's Priory," Dr. Emile G. Q. Van Tilburg told the members of Women's Auxiliary to the Priory at their annual meeting held in the Tallyho Treveldegs.

Dr. Van Tilburg, new administrator of St. Joseph's Hospital, briefly traced the history of hospitals back to ancient times when care of the sick was carried out in early Greek and Roman temples — the forerunners of modern hospitals — and down through the ages to the early 19th century which he referred to as the "dark ages" of hospitals, and on to the 20th century hospital characterized by its mushrooming growth.

"Our hospital of today is looking toward the summit. It is gradually ridding itself of its old prejudices," he said.

The speaker then referred to the origin in this area of St. Mary's Priory which was brought about by the Sisters of Love of Jesus order who on their arrival in Victoria found a great need for care of the elderly.

He pointed out that the Priory was now following the general trend of Roman Catholic schools and institutions, modernizing and adapting to meet the growing needs of the community.

In keeping with the new policy a board of directors headed by Dr. G. F. Amyot, former deputy minister of health, has been set up.

He announced that the Priory has now been accepted as an eligible customer's care unit under the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service.

order to meet provincial requirements many improvements are planned for the kitchens, bathrooms and washroom facilities in the existing care unit.

"We hope that in the future funds will be available for a new building at St. Mary's," Dr. Van Tilburg said.

Another revolutionary change at the Priory was the recent appointment of a lay administrator, Mr. George Harrison, who assumed his new duties the beginning of this week.

The speaker told the auxiliary members that they would be needed more than ever before to help with the reorganization program. He also urged them to develop and organize small groups of volunteers who would be willing to donate several hours a week visiting and helping the Priory staff with the care of patients.

Rev. Mother Mary Ferdinand thanked the group for its devoted support and commended Dr. Van Tilburg on his recommendation of a volunteer program.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Stewart, Apartment 306, 1975-B Lee Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Barrie, to Mr. Edward Francis Iske, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Iske of Red Deer, Alta. The wedding will take place at 6:45 p.m., Saturday, April 22, in St. Patrick's Church with Rev. J. C. Dowd officiating.—(Robin Clarke)

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Six Going From Island

Six Vancouver Islanders will participate in commemorative services marking the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge.

Four will go to Vimy Ridge and two to Ottawa. The ceremonies will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in both places.

In addition to Col. William McMurray of Victoria, whose trip was reported in Sunday's Colonist, Capt. A. W. Jack of Qualicum Beach, Ian Menzies of Cobble Hill and Bert Drysdale of 135 Helmcken will go to France.

DUG TUNNELS

Capt. Jack will represent the 54th Canadian Infantry Battalion and Mr. Menzies the 16th Battalion, Canadian Scottish. Mr. Drysdale went overseas with the 48th Highlanders, later transferred to a pioneer unit and dug tunnels at Vimy Ridge.

Going to Ottawa are Major George Nicholson, 550 Rockland, who will represent the 57th Battalion Western Scots of the 4th division of pioneers, and S. B. Cleverley, 1535 Shasta Place, who was attached to E Battery of anti-aircraft with the Canadian army service corps at Vimy Ridge at the age of 17.

Subtle Snub Spoiling Vimy Affair

LONDON (CP) — The French government is reported to have delivered what one well-placed informant described Tuesday as a subtle snub to the Canadian administration.

This involves national representation at the Canadian observance of the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, an important turning point in the First World War that solidified Canadian troops and gave the Allies a tremendous push toward victory.

VIA EARLY BIRD

Canadian officials have exerted a great deal of effort to make this observance an outstanding event of the century. The military ritual at Vimy is to be televised in Canada via Early Bird satellite.

Prince Philip, in the uniform of a colonel of the Royal Canadian Regiment of which he is commander-in-chief, will represent the Queen of Canada. Ambassadors from a half-dozen Commonwealth and former Commonwealth countries have been invited.

AS A SYMBOL

At one time Canadian officials had hoped President de Gaulle would be present at Vimy Sunday, as a symbol of strong Canadian-French relations.

But officials said they have been informed he won't be there. Neither will there be a member of the French cabinet. The official political representative at Vimy will be the local garrison commander, identified as Gen. Marquez.

NO NAME YET

There also will be a general representing the French forces but Canadian embassy officials in Paris said they have not yet been given the general's name. Prince Philip will be met by a regional federal official at Arras.

One Canadian official who declined to be identified described the French decision as an insult to the Canadian government and Canadian veterans. He said that, despite this decision, he anticipates a crowd of about 15,000 at Vimy.

The Canadian embassy in Paris has declined comment.

However, an informant said French coolness resulted from the Canadian decision to have Prince Philip appear in his role as representative of the Queen of Canada. In French eyes Philip is the husband of the British monarch.

The informant said the Canadian government had been warned that, if it persisted in having Philip present, the French government would downgrade the observance into a strictly Canadian affair with minimum French government representation.

Speck Had Gun and Knife On Night of Eight Killings

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A jury trying Richard Speck on charges of murdering eight nurses in Chicago last July heard testimony Tuesday that Speck had been drinking and had a gun and a knife shortly before the girls were strangled and stabbed.

Mrs. Michael Gonze, who runs the Shipyard Inn in Chicago, testified that Speck drank in the morning, afternoon and evening of July 13 and left her place at 10 or 10:15 p.m.

TWO MILES AWAY

The prosecution contends Speck, armed with a revolver and knife, broke into the dormitory of the nurses, about two miles from the inn on Chicago's south side, at 11 p.m.

Patrick Walsh, a dark-haired construction worker, told the circuit court jury that Speck drew a gun in the inn in mid-evening.

Walsh said Speck sat in a booth just behind him. He looked around, he added, and Speck "kept staring" at him.

"I asked if I knew him from some job," Walsh related.

Walsh, who had a cast on one leg because of a broken ankle received no reply, he testified, and swung out of the booth.

"He reached into his shirt and put something between his legs," the witness stated.

Walsh said Speck noticed that he had been injured and "put his gun back inside."

DIDN'T REALIZE

"Speck said, 'I'm sorry, I didn't realize your leg was broken. Sit down and let me buy you a beer.' So I sat down and started talking."

Mrs. Gonze said she last saw Speck shortly after 10 p.m., and didn't see him again until she entered the witness box.

Under questioning by Speck's lawyer, Gerald W. Getty, she said she didn't look into Speck's room until police came to interview her July 14 or 15.

RODE WITH VICTIM

Miss Patricia McCarthy, a nurse who lived in another nurses dormitory in the same block, told the jury she rode in from the southwest side July 13 with two of the victims, Suzanne Farris and Mary Ann Jordan.

She said they entered the house about midnight to get something, came out again and later went back in about 12:25 a.m.

The prosecution's time table has Speck entering the house at 11 p.m.

The cold facts about cooked pudding.

Or, how to get that real home-cooked flavour your kids will love, without all the fuss and bother of cooking.

Used to be when you wanted real, honest-to-goodness home-cooked flavour in a pudding, that's what you had to do. Cook it.

Because cooking made it better. Cooking made it smoother, creamier. And it brought out all its flavour. The only thing was, cooking was such a lot of bother. You had to get a pot and mix the stuff in and then stir it and stir it and watch it till it boiled. Oops. Careful. And then cool it. And when you were through you had a real cooked pudding all right but more often than not you had a real mess too. Guck.

So what this country needed was a pudding that tasted just like the cooked kind, without the cooking.

Robin Hood cooked one up. The new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding. The Unique One.

With the new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding all you do is add milk, chill, and serve. There's nothing to it. Takes about 15 minutes in all. And it really does taste like the kind you slave over. How do we know? We tried it on the experts. Lots of them. 7, 8 and 9 year olds. The toughest critics we could find. And they agreed. They said it does taste just like the kind their moms cook for them. The kind where they couldn't wait to lick the pot.

The new Robin Hood Parfait (they said) had the same texture too. It was thick and creamy just like cooked. Smooth, with no lumps. Not watery either. Just good wholesome old-fashioned pudding, a new-fashioned way. They loved all its five delicious flavours too. Chocolate, Butterscotch, Vanilla, Lemon, and Coconut Cream.

And that's why Robin Hood Parfait is The Unique One. Because there just aren't any other puddings that can match it for real cooked flavour. And in this day and age of Instant, and artificial flavours and synthetics, that is unique.

What's more, Robin Hood Parfait gives you more for your money. It makes up into six big servings. Not just four like the others. (And that's pretty unique too.)

So why not give new Robin Hood Parfait pudding a try tomorrow. Find out for yourself why we call it The Unique One.

And years from now, when your kids have grown up and gone they'll always remember Robin Hood chill and serve Parfait as the good home-cooked pudding mother used to make. That's a fact.

The Unique One

Garrison Target 'Will Blow Case Wide Open'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Gordon Novel, subpoenaed as a material witness in the New Orleans investigation of the alleged Kennedy assassination plot, was released on bond Tuesday and said he would "blow the case wide open."

"I'm going to prove the investigation is a complete fabrication," Novel said.

I Expect To Win Says Shaw

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Clay Shaw goes into court today to enter a plea on charges he conspired in September of 1963 to kill President Kennedy. Shaw will be arraigned before District Judge Edward Hagerty in the same building where a grand jury is hearing District Attorney Jim Garrison's continuing investigation of the assassination.

"God willing, I'm looking forward to the trial," said Shaw, a tall, greying businessman, "I expect to win."

Shaw has been indicted on accusations that he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and pilot David Ferrie to murder Kennedy two months before the president was shot to death in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Torture Trial Launched

LONDON (UPI)—The trial of 11 people, including a woman, in charges of torturing victims in an extortion racket feeding on London's gambling boom opened in Old Bailey Court Tuesday with platoons of police guarding the doors.

Some spectators were searched before they could get past the 60 detectives on duty and all had to show special passes to get into the trial.

The 11 defendants were picked up last year during a Scotland Yard raid in London's East End. They faced 40 charges ranging from assault to extortion.

District Attorney Jim Garrison's assassination inquiry. "I'm going to blow the case wide open."

Novel, 29, a former New Orleans nightclub operator, left city jail under $10,000 bond.

He was arrested near here last Saturday and charged with being a fugitive from justice. Garrison filed a conspiracy to commit burglary charge against him.

GOVERNOR'S HEARING

Novel said he would "prove" Garrison's investigation was "a complete fabrication" when the anticipated extradition action went to court or to a governor's hearing.

As Novel left city jail he told newsmen Garrison's investigation was motivated by "political ambition."

"I'm not afraid of anything, except Mr. Garrison on occasion," he said. "I'm afraid for the people around me because I'm the only one who can expose Garrison."

MATERIAL WITNESS

Novel first came to Columbus several weeks ago shortly before he was subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury as a material witness in Garrison's probe.

His girlfriend, Playboy Club bunny Abby Mulligan, is a native of Columbus and her family lives here.

Novel was in and out of the city since leaving his native New Orleans. He made a trip to McLean, Va., where he said he took a lie detector test. He said the test "proved" his statements concerning the investigation.

Novel said the money he needed to raise his bond was supplied by friends in New Orleans.

PRESSURE COOKER

"You wouldn't believe the pressure being put on my friends in New Orleans," he said.

"Right now things are like a pressure cooker down there," he said. "There is no such thing as a court of law in New Orleans right now."

Novel said he worked as an investigator for Garrison until he became convinced the alleged assassination plot was non-existent.

"My code name was Alexander, and I'm sure Garrison knows the significance of that name," he said.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENCKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

A player who never gives up trying is often a more desirable partner than one whose grasp of theory is superior. On this deal, South made a tough contract, because he refused to collapse after a first-trick booboo.

Having reached the seemingly-easy heart slam, declarer ruffed the club opening in dummy and played the trump ace, on which West threw a club. Suddenly, there was a problem.

The slam would have been easy had declarer won the club opening instead of ruffing on the table. He could then have drawn two trumps and knocked out the diamond ace. Even if West held up the ace until the third round, dummy's long trump would have been an entry via a club ruff. As the play had actually gone, there was danger declarer would never collect the long diamond, which he needed for his twelfth trick. But he found a clever way of recovering.

South led a diamond, ducked by West, and another diamond, ducked again. Now declarer swapped horses. He finessed the trump ten and cashed the top clubs, ditching two diamonds from the board. Then he ruffed a diamond; drew trumps and claimed the slam. The only trick he lost was a spade.

Had West taken the second diamond and returned the suit, South would have played dummy's fourth diamond, ruffed by East and over-ruffed by South. This conjures up an extra trick. Declarer makes six tricks in trumps and two in each of the other suits.

Hollywood in Flap Over Oscar Show

This Week's Crisis: ABC Strike

By DIAL TORGERSON
HOLLYWOOD (LAT) — Can there be an Academy Awards without television?

They chewed that one over — along with the eggs benedict — on the Sunset Strip Tuesday. Everybody's best guess: No.

The usual pre-awards crises escalated this week when the strike against major TV networks threatened next Monday's Oscars presentations.

ABC, which is scheduled to do the broadcast, is one of those struck by the AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists. If AFTRA pickets the show, many participants would refuse to cross the picket lines.

A spokesman for the academy said, however, he saw no legal reason why the awards couldn't be made without a telecast — as in the old pre-TV days, when the ceremony was something of a family affair within the industry.

"Those good old days are gone," said one prominent movie publicist — asking not to be quoted by name. "The fact is, people come to the awards because of the television. They come to be seen."

"If it isn't going to be on television, a lot would cancel out. It would be meaningless to hold it with almost nobody there. Everyone's hoping the strike will be settled. But if it isn't, you can bet a lot of people will cancel out. And then they'll have to postpone the presentations."

Many stars are coming from far away for the event. Others, here for other reasons, might leave earlier if there's no reason to stick around for the telecast.

"We still are holding reservations for Julie Christie, and Paul Scofield," said Phil Landon, assistant manager of the swank Bel-Air Hotel. "There haven't been any changes so far, but then they have a few days yet to make up their minds."

Bob Hope, scheduled to be the master of ceremonies for the awards telecast, said he wouldn't cross a picket line to do the job.

"Maybe we'll go back to having a dinner along with the presentations, like they did in the old days," he said. "It wasn't a broadcast at all — the losers would get up and and it ruined everyone's get sick."

For Saanich

Too Much Travelling

Conferences for municipal officials seem to be multiplying "faster than Australian rabbits," says Reeve Curtis of Saanich.

He made the observation after Saanich received notice of a special short course for members of council and planning commissions at the University of B.C., May 8 to 12.

"We will have to restrict our travelling to only the important conferences and to senior municipal staff," noted the reeve after council turned down the Vancouver trip.

MANY TRIPS

Saanich has approved sending 22 council members and senior officials to 11 different conventions this summer.

They will range from a conference for municipal clerks at Los Angeles to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in Montreal. In addition to a number of B.C. convention sites, other Saanich delegates will be going to Tacoma, Spokane and Boise, Idaho.

Far Away

Out in Sooke bush, 25 miles from Victoria, on Wright Road, is new transport department marine radio. Station is staffed by four operators around clock and is third in Victoria since 1962. First was on Gonzales Hill, second at Gordon Head. Each shift was caused by crowding from growing suburbs, but there's little chance of that at new location for some time. — (Klanman)

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding men. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Thursday and Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness—and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Thursday and Friday, April 6 and 7.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named trichologist Mr. G. Lane to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Lane will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Executive House Motor Hotel, 777 Douglas.

EXAMINE YOU FREE

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Lane," declared Harrison.

"You only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home Treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are hopeless."

OFFERS NO CURE-ALL

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no cure-all that will correct every one of the 12 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

SATISFY 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and bald—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts convincing himself with one of the old superstitions about hair."

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Lane in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop baldness and re-grow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Executive House Motor Hotel Thursday or Friday, between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Lane's suite number. You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Assault on City Police Officer Jails Man for Three Months

Francis Holden, no fixed address, was found guilty of assaulting a police officer and was sentenced to three months in jail in central magistrate's court Tuesday. He was also convicted of causing a disturbance and sentenced to 20 days. The sentences will be served consecutively.

Holden was charged after he hit and kicked Constable Kenneth Horsman as officers attempted to put him in a police van about 4:20 p.m. March 17 after arresting him at Meares and Quadra for creating a disturbance when drunk.

Fines of $15 and $10 were imposed on 19-year-old Manfred Saager, 2570 Asquith, after he was convicted of being intoxicated in the 600 block Johnson about 1 a.m. March 17, and also convicted of carrying a concealed weapon.

A 22-inch length of chain with a wrist cord attached was found in Saager's pocket during a police search.

Magistrate J. A. Byers sentenced Murray Ozburn, no fixed address, to a six-month jail term after he pleaded guilty to taking a $17.88 movie camera from a downtown department store, without paying Monday afternoon.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett told court the accused's criminal record dates back more than 20 years.

Gordon E. Dixon, 152 Sims, was fined $45 in traffic court for careless driving.

The 20-year-olds, Wilfred Holinger of 840 Craigflower, and Ronald Zilkke of 4203 Panorama, were each fined $35 after in pleading guilty to separate charges of being minors in possession of liquor.

Fewer Killed On B.C. Roads

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Safety Council says accidents took the lives of 226 people in B.C. to the end of February. The council's figures show 77 died in road deaths, a drop of 16 over the same period in 1966.

Comfort: Chevrolet is very generous on this one. Just sink into those softly-padded seats and discover how generous. And then you can't help but notice no-cost extras like wall-to-wall deep-twist carpeting, a acoustical ceiling and padded instrument panel.

Seat back latches: Chevrolet's folding front seat backs can't tip forward until you let them. You do it simply by pushing a button like this. It's a standard feature on every Chevrolet. Isn't that a comfort!

Ride: Chevrolet has a new way of cushioning the body, which, together with refinements in the rear suspension, helps smooth the bumps away and hushes up those annoying little road noises.

Comfort steering wheel: Chevrolet always did spoil you—so you shouldn't be too surprised at this thoughtful option. It lets you tilt the steering wheel to your most comfortable driving position. Trust Chevrolet to think of that.

Victoria-Vancouver service by Pacific Western Airlines probably won't start before the end of the year, PWA chairman Brice Samis said from Vancouver Tuesday.

He said an application to be filed this week for a license from the federal Air Transport Board to operate the route is unlikely to be granted before early in 1968.

Because it is a short run, Mr. Samis said PWA would probably use DC-6Bs at first. Type of plane was less important than frequency service, he said.

Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce president Ian Andersen says the chamber has chosen a lighthouse as its official sign and has asked the municipal council's works committee to act on it.

He gave the committee Tuesday a drawing of a lighthouse which he said the chamber would like to see built as a marker at the three entrances to Esquimalt. He also suggested a slogan Beacon of the Pacific for Esquimalt because of its armed forces connections.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Vigilantes riding the nearby Nicola Valley range claim they have put a stop to a gang of mustangs who have been removing and killing off the last wild horses in British Columbia.

John Humsey of Lower Nicola, who organized the 50 vigilantes from fellow ranchers, farmers and cowboys, said in an interview Tuesday his gang has put the brakes on wild horse killings in the area.

Esquimalt, which got an anti-noise bylaw last fall, is getting an anti-rubbish bylaw now. The public works committee Tuesday recommended a bylaw to force the removal of trash and rubbish, and specifically "derelict motor vehicle bodies."

Sidney council will be asked to appoint a committee that will join a North Saanich committee studying the feasibility of amalgamating the two councils.

The request was approved this week at a North Saanich council meeting. Council also passed a bylaw banning blasting in the district without a permit, and decided to hire a firm of engineers to advise the municipality — on a fee basis.

Residents of the Prospect Lake area who want to join the Saanich water system will take their case to court if necessary.

Norman Britnell, who leads a group that wants to join the municipal system, mentioned the possible action in a letter to Saanich council that said water is a municipal responsibility and added the group did not intend a threat. Reeve Curtis said Saanich is moving as quickly as possible toward a referendum on the issue.

More snow and less rain than usual is the Victoria weather office report for March.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Monday the federal government is opting out of Confederation.

Mr. Bennett told a news conference Ottawa had withdrawn from a number of shared cost programs "when they started to become expensive" and predicted the federal government also would "opt out" of the present shared plan on hospital care.

BREAKUP CLAIMED

The premier elaborated at the news conference on statements he made Monday regarding federal aid to B.C. and said the federal government was "trying to break up Canada by opting out."

Mr. Bennett said a statement by Prime Minister Pearson that Ottawa gave B.C. $272,000,000 in tax revenues and grants last year was "completely false."

"The federal government gives B.C. no federal aid," the premier said. "I want to make that definite."

BEING RETURNED

He said shared costs were not aid but the federal share of federal policies. Income tax rebates were just B.C. taxes being returned.

The premier called the present Liberal government "the worst Canada has ever had" and Mr. Pearson the worst prime minister ever but said External Affairs Minister Martin, "my good friend in Ottawa, would make a good prime minister."

"A good Liberal prime minister?" he was asked.

"Yes," Mr. Bennett replied. "There's nothing wrong with a Liberal, only with the Liberals."

Issue
Unsettled

OTTAWA (CP) — The report of a federal inquiry into a labor dispute that tied up B.C. ports for 14 days last year urges adoption of a grievance procedure for foremen of stevedoring crews.

The report of Mr. Justice Rhodes Smith also calls for a one-year "cooling off" period in which neither the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union nor the B.C. Maritime Employers Association would become involved in grievance procedures.

MAIN ISSUE

But the 15,000-word report avoids making a judgment on whether the 200 foremen involved should have the right to be represented by the ILWU, the main issue in the dispute.

Mr. Justice Smith says this matter must continue to be the prerogative of the Canadian Labor Relations board. Three years ago the board turned down union applications to be certified as the bargaining agent for foremen employed by two Vancouver stevedoring firms.

Heart Fund Opened

The Kiwanis Club Tuesday launched a fund-raising campaign that will save 800 Victorians from sudden death during the next 10 years.

The $20,000 which will be sought by the service club will be spent on special heart monitoring equipment for Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

The money will be the local share of $31,354 worth of devices that will listen to the thump-thump-thump of hearts in new cardiac wards in each of the hospitals.

QUICK ALARM

Seconds after the heart's sound becomes a thump-pause-thump, for example, alarms will ring that will bring nurses to the bedside with life-saving equipment.

Dr. George Woodward, chief of cardiology at Royal Jubilee, told Kiwanians that of the 500 people admitted to Victoria's hospitals with acute heart attacks each year, about 80 will die.

As it is now, many of the people whose hearts suddenly misbehave don't have their trouble noticed until it's too late — during an autopsy.

MONITORS

Dr. E. G. Q. Van Tilburg, medical director St. Joseph's, pointed out that monitoring equipment at the patients' bedside and nursing stations will save many of those lives.

Both of Victoria's major hospitals now have heart-monitoring equipment, but they are comparatively primitive devices.

The Kiwanis Club and the hospitals hope to see the equipment in use this summer.

because of poor health. Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons that Mr. Favreau will become a judge of the superior court of Quebec. Mr. Cardin's plans are unknown. In a tribute to their service, Mr. Pearson noted the "unselfish and devoted service to Canada of these two old and true friends of mine."

ADEN (AP)—Two pro-Egyptian nationalist groups stepped up attacks on British troops Tuesday and then fell upon each other. A nationalist leader was assassinated by rival Arab gunmen in Aden. Embroiled are the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen and the National Liberation Front.

Grits Load Lineup With Youth

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The key member in the new Pearson Liberal cabinet is a prolific left-wing writer and commentator who is noted for wearing colorful cravats instead of ties, and sandals instead of shoes. Moreover, Pierre Elliott Trudeau says he will remain a swinger, and won't change his clothes.

Other key figures are:

● John Napier Turner, 37-year-old lawyer and Rhodes Scholar, who got more than a Cabinet promotion—a major boost into the Liberal leadership race.

● Jean Chretien, 33, a young man on the move and second youngest Cabinet member in Canadian history. (Charles Hibbert Tupper was three months younger when he was appointed in 1888.)

Tie Was Tip-Off

Posing for pictures with Trudeau after the swearing-in, Prime Minister Pearson suddenly said, with a big smile: "Did you hear what a bright young executive assistant said this morning? He said Trudeau must be going into the cabinet—he's wearing a tie!"

"And shoes," interjected John Turner. Trudeau, 46, smiled, blushed under his old tan, and looked down at his conservative, dark blue garb, but allowed he would keep his swinger image intact.

But, the new justice minister added, "Remember it's the solicitor general who looks after swinging (hanging) now." The Mount Royal member has impressive credentials: a law degree from Montreal, master of political science, Harvard, and post-graduate work at the University of Paris and London School of Economics. ## Michener Honored

'Prospect Rather Awesome'

By DAVID VAN PRAAGH

NEW DELHI (Special) — Daniel Roland Michener, Canada's new governor-general, said early Wednesday he hopes he will be regarded as the representative of the whole Canadian people as well as the Queen's representative in Canada.

He strongly defended Canada's constitutional monarchy in a changing world, and the Commonwealth idea of "inter-racial co-operation." Mr. Michener talked to me of his conception of the role of governor-general in his office as Canada's high commissioner in India, the most populous member of the Commonwealth. He will relinquish that post in time to return to Canada before the opening of Expo 67 on April 28.

"One doesn't aspire to this role—it is not an elective office and it is not the kind one imagines for himself—and I am still a bit incredulous that this has befallen me," he said. He said the new post represents a "rather awesome prospect."

Symbol of Continuity

It was after 1 a.m. Wednesday in New Delhi when the announcement of Mr. Michener's appointment was made to the House of Commons in Ottawa by Prime Minister Pearson. While the announcement was not unexpected here, Michener never took it for granted.

He sat calmly in a chair in his comfortable office, which directly adjoins the high commissioner's residence, and put slowly but surely into words his reactions on being named the third Canadian-born governor-general.

"My wife and I are deeply conscious of the honor of being chosen by Her Majesty as her representative."

Top Tories Tackle Same Hellyer Song

OTTAWA (CP)—Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, Tuesday accused Defence Minister Hellyer of making the same false statements over and over again.

He said in the Commons that the minister thinks that if he repeats something, no matter how false, often enough the public will believe it.

Gordon Churchill, another former Conservative defence minister, said he does not see how the Commons can carry on a serious debate on armed forces unification if it is going to be faced by statements by Mr. Hellyer which are "palpably untrue."

Admiral the Earl Mountbatten stressed importance of retention of identities of services, including ranks and uniforms, in clarification of views of integration and unification—in a Colonist exclusive on Page 5.

Mr. Hellyer said he would reply at a later date to Mr. Harkness' "spurious allegations."

He said he is sick of hearing the former minister's "repetitious nonsense" and "vague generalities" which he could not prove.

The exchange came as the Commons went into its second day of debate on the government's unification bill.

Mr. Harkness said he had already proved his statements by quoting figures of the auditor-general and those supplied by the defence department itself.

He said Mr. Hellyer has claimed that he was making big savings.

ONE EXCEPTION

But he had not saved the taxpayer anything. Defence expenditures had gone up every year, with one exception, since the Liberals had taken office in 1963.

The government was spending more for defence and getting a great deal less defence.

The armed forces had 20,000 fewer men now than four years ago. There were not enough sailors to man all the ships and not enough soldiers to fill the infantry battalions.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had tried to show in the Commons defence committee, by use of a "false" chart, that expenditures for weapons had risen.

SMALLER PROPORTION

But weapons expenditures, as shown by the auditor-general's report, represented a smaller proportion of the defence budget in each of the last four years than in 1961-62 when the Conservatives were in office.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had made a deliberate attempt to deceive the public by saying recruiting last year was higher than in 1965 and 1964.

Recruiting was slightly higher in 1966 than in the previous two years but they were the poorest years since 1950.

Natal Coalmen Follow Instinct to Mine

Cave-In, Death—Then Back to Work

Weary miner Arnold Webster

NATAL, B.C. (CP)—Many of Natal's coal miners swore off their trade Monday after a cave-in underground explosion which killed 15 men, but prepared Tuesday to follow "instinct" and return to the mines.

"Cave-ins and deaths," said John Hardy, 61, of Coleman, Alta., who left the mine five minutes before the blast, "but in a day or so you all go back in again."

Bad Morgan, 33, of Natal, whose rescue team hauled out four bodies, summed up the comments of many in this grimy Cowichan Falls town: "Hell, you can drive down a road and get killed." were made for funerals—a mass funeral was being considered for Thursday—and money began to pour into a disaster fund to assist the victims' families. Only one was single.

Shock still hung over this community of 800, destined to be closed within a year, following its first major disaster.

Thirteen miners, aged from 17 to 45, were killed.

All Commons Acclaims Appointment

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA — An RCAF Yukon flies to New Delhi, India, on Monday to bring home Canada's governor-general designate, Roland Michener.

Mr. Michener will be sworn in as Canada's third native-born governor-general in the Senate chamber on Monday, April 17.

Then he will inspect a guard of honor on Parliament Hill, step into a landau and be driven to his new home, Rideau Hall.

NO DOUBTS

It ended the month-long guessing game about the successor to the late Governor-General Vanier.

In the Commons, speaker after speaker indicated that Mr. Michener has large boots to fill.

But they left no doubt that he could fill them.

PLANS MOVE

Earlier Mr. Pearson had visited Mrs. Vanier, who had told him of her own plans to move to Montreal.

The prime minister's office is silent and embarrassed by the action of the Queen in jumping the gun and announcing the appointment of Mr. Michener an hour before it was announced in Ottawa.

The cause of the goof was the difference in time between London and Ottawa.

Normally, there is a five-hour difference between the two cities.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

A MAN WHO IS rapidly approaching his 60th year, did something to bolster the morale of older golfers when he shared the medal honors in the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open Match play championship at Victoria Sunday.

George Bigelow, who admits to 58 years, not only equalled the 71 recorded by youthful pros Vaughan Trapp and Bill Wakeham, but did the long back nine in three under par 34 while each of the bright young men took 37s over the same trail.

Some people say that Bigelow is now playing as well if not better than he ever did and there is no doubt that he keeps himself in amazingly good shape.

Several years ago, Bigelow reached the final of the Island Open, and there were many who said of the "old man" that this was his last chance, when he failed to account for Norm Edden.

However Bigelow must still be regarded as one of those in the running to win his first open, and his progress in the match-play event will be followed with great interest.

According to the handicap book, the 100 entrants for the qualifying round of the Island Open should all have been pretty good players.

Only those with handicaps of 10 and under had a chance of making the tournament.

But when it came to recording their scores more than half of the field put up a miserable show, and not one of the qualifiers in the handicap section was able to match the net par 70 for the course.

Admittedly the greens and the tees were not too good, but the players were using winter rules — which meant no bad lie on the fairways.

Yet 34 players returned no scores; 13 of them shot between 98 and 100; 35 scores were returned in the 95-99 bracket; and 50 were between 80 and 94. Only 34 were in the 70s.

It makes one wonder. How good is our handicapping system? Or maybe it would be fairer to say, how many players comply with the basic requirements of that system?

On the score of results in the qualifying competition, it would seem there are many who are flatter themselves into thinking they are better golfers than they really are.

In the next few weeks — we hope — the local clubs will be abandoning the winter rule regulations which seem to apply to us nowadays for most of the year.

Their departure will not be lamented, because winter rules are nothing short of a nuisance to all those who want to play golf as it should be played, and are not afraid of playing a shot from a bad lie.

But it is in the rules interpretation that winter rules cause most trouble.

The RCGA rules of golf make no provision for the use of the preferred lie, although they give the clubs some latitude to make local regulations to suit climatic and other conditions of an unusual nature.

***

The result is that when a club hangs up a notice "Winter Rules" it opens the door for all sorts of interpretations, if not abuse.

The only way in which golfing anarchy can be controlled in such circumstances is if each club clearly defines what it means by "winter rules."

Locally, the general understanding is that the lie may be improved for any fairway shot but not for a shot played from the rough.

Here is snag No. 1. The rules of golf make no differentiation between rough and fairway.

When the ball is on the fairway in what way may the player proceed to improve the lie?

(1) may he move it by hand, or only with the club-head?

(2) may he clean the ball as he is permitted to do under RCGA rules on the green?

(3) may he move the ball two, four, six or more inches from its original position, and if so may he improve his stance as well as his lie by doing so?

I always shudder when some irate golfer calls me up and asks for a ruling on a winter rule incident. There is no rule in the book which covers the argument, and the best one can do normally is to give a verdict on equity.

The other day one of our better players sent a ball into a sea of mud that was obviously not fairway. It was embedded deep in the mud, and he claimed he was entitled to improve the lie under local rule. His opponents said no, that the winter rule applied only to fairways whether the ball was embedded or not.

In this, the opponents were correct for if it were permitted to improve the lie of a ball in the rough on the grounds that it was embedded, a new can of worms would be immediately opened, and players would be picking up their balls from deep rough to test — and how other could they do it? — if the ball was embedded.

What the player should probably have done was to declare the "sea of mud" into which his ball dropped to be casual water and this would, of course, give him a free drop under the provisions of Golf Rule No. 33 (no winter rule difficulties here.)

The definition of casual water is — any temporary accumulation of water which is visible before or after the player takes his stance and which is not a hazard of itself or is not in a water hazard.

Hull Stays Unknown Quantity As Reay Hurls Verbal Curves

From CP and UPI

Conflicting statements were attributed to coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawks yesterday, leaving unanswered the question of whether Bobby Hull would be ready for the first game of the National Hockey League semifinal against Toronto Maple Leafs in Chicago Thursday night.

"Bobby's knee will be okay for the opener," Reay was quoted in one story out of Chicago, apparently dispelling doubts about the Hawks' 52-goal scorer being able to start the series.

However, another story said that Reay indicated that Hull might have to sit out at least the first game.

"He may not play Thursday," Reay is quoted. "We'll have to wait until Thursday to find out. You have to think of the whole series, not just one game."

Hull, who suffered strained ligaments in a game against Detroit Red Wings which forced him to miss the last three games of the schedule, also seemed uncertain about the opening game.

"It's not quite right," he said. "But it never is after an injury. It doesn't feel 100 per cent and I can't stop and start on it."

Reay, who knows he will be without a defence man Matt Ravlich for Stanley Cup play, is also worried about the condition of forwards Chico Maki and Doug Mohn.

Maki, who worked out yesterday, has been out with an injury to an Achilles tendon which has been slow to heal.

AFFECTS ENDURANCE

"It's all right when I start out," Maki said, "but it pains after a few minutes. It affects my endurance more than my movements."

Mohn, who missed yesterday's workout, is suffering from a bad back, which tightens up when he is not active. However, he is expected to be able to play on Thursday.

There was speculation about Reay's choice of goalkeepers for the series.

Because he played Dennis DeJordy in the last five games of the schedule, many observers felt that Reay was freshening up Glenn Hall, his 35-year-old veteran, for the playoffs.

STATISTICS SUPPORT REAY
Reay admitted he had deliberately given Hall a rest but said that "You can be sure that Dennis and Glenn will split the work in the playoffs. Both have been so good that it doesn't matter which one we use."

Statistics certainly bore him out. Hall and DeJordy combined to win the Vezina Trophy with DeJordy having a 2.27 goals against average and Hall showing a 2.38 average.

While the Hawks were keeping in trim at home, the Leafs

were going through a routine in Peterborough which called for two workouts a day and plenty of time watching reruns of movies which showed that the Hawks had outscored the Leafs.

55-37, in compiling an 8-2 record against their semifinal opponents.

"I hope they're so sick of this place that they'll be glad to get at Chicago," manager-coach Punch Imlach growled.

Imlach discounted the statistics which showed the Leafs lost six and tied one of the seven league games played in Chicago.

"So what if we didn't win in Chicago all season — we have to stop losing sometime."

Imlach could take comfort from the fact it appeared as if

semifinal between Chicago and Toronto will be televised on Channel 2 and 6 starting at 8:30 p.m.

his club would be at full strength for the series.

"The injury picture is better than I figured it would be," he informed. "Larry Jeffrey's 'shoulder separation' turned out

Mahovlich's knee is okay, George Armstrong is shaking groin and ankle injuries and Marcel Pronovost should be ready despite a bruised instep."

Leafs were not talking openly about Hull's injury but they all know his condition will be a big factor in the series. Hull scored 12 goals and picked up six assists in the 14 games against Leafs.

Adding extra spice to the series is the fact that Reay is the man Imlach fired nine years ago when he added the coaching duties to his managerial portfolio at Toronto.

game. Forwards John Ferguson and Bobby Rousseau were the only Canadiens to avoid sidelining injuries but they served three and two-game suspensions, respectively.

EVERYONE READY

But everyone is ready for the playoff start and Canadiens feel they are in the form which last season won them both the league championship and the Stanley Cup.

Coach The Blake has protection at all positions. He has his choice of three goalkeepers in Rogatien Vachon, Gump Worsley and Charlie Hodge, has Carlo Vadnais as an extra defenceman and extra forwards in Dick Duff, Gary Peters and Jim Roberts.

Blake's problem at the moment is deciding between Roberts, an outstanding penalty-killer, and Duff as his 19th player.

Because he has four right-wingers in Claude Provost, Yvan Cournoyer and Leon Rochefort, Blake was inclined to go with leftwinger Duff.

"He's a money player," Blake said.

FRANCIS WORRIED

In New York, manager-coach Emile Francis of the Rangers was worried about his club's late-season slump and the season's record, which showed Canadiens ahead 7-5-2.

Rangers, who led at one stage of the campaign and for a long time seem destined to end no worse than second, were beaten, 5-1 and 5-0 in their last two games and wound up 1-2.

"We've got to get back to good skating and forechecking, the way we were earlier in the season," Francis said. "The goalkeeper can't do it all by himself."

But it was on Ed Giacomin that the Rangers were counting the most.

"I," said Francis, "I had to single out one man responsible for getting us into the playoffs. I'd say it was Ed Giacomin."

Busy Chuvalo Adds Willie To Kayo List

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Four-ranked heavyweight George Chuvalo of Toronto scored a TKO in 1:02 of the third round over Willie Basmanoff of Miami Beach before 3,716 fans Tuesday night.

The Canadian contender kept alive his hopes for a title bout with Cassius Clay, pending the latter's draft status, by scoring his 11th straight victory by knockout. His record is now 46-12-2.

The victory brought new demands from Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, that Chuvalo was ready for Clay but that Clay was ducking his fighter.

"Last November I received a faithful promise that Chuvalo would be in a title bout with Clay," Ungerman said.

"Since then, they have kept us on a string despite George's 11 straight knockouts and our offer guaranteeing him (Clay) a $250,000 purse to fight in Detroit."

At 217 pounds, Chuvalo completely carried the first round and midway in the second staggered his opponent with a right. Basmanoff, at 198½ pounds, pulled himself together, took more punishment with severe left hooks but weathered the round.

Then in the third Chuvalo connected with a left hook and Basmanoff hit the canvas. He got up at eight, was hit with two lefts and a smashing right to put him down for another eight count. When he got to his feet, the referee stopped the bout.

'No Need for Hydro Raise'

Squire Turns Heat on Socreds

PORT ALBERT — John Squire, president of the NDP Constituency Association here, turned the heat switch on high as he lashed out at B.C. Hydro rate increases.

"I've been following the debate in Victoria and I'm not overly surprised at the increase," Mr. Squire said.

"Neither was I surprised when Premier Bennett denied any knowledge of the announcement. Apparently Mr. Bennett has reserved for himself the privilege of only being knowledgeable about those aspects of B.C. Hydro operations which reflect him in a good political light, such as power decreases and powerline extensions. "As I see it, there is no need for this power rate increase. "Theoretically, the costs of the Peace and Columbia dam projects are divorced from the operating costs of the B.C. Hydro. And the Hydro claims a 17 per cent increase in consumption, which should logically lead to decreased operating costs per consumer. "However, my chief sympathy lies with those people who have been persuaded, by way of B.C. Hydro advertising, to go in for electric heating in their homes. "The ads implied that while all other forms of heating were becoming more costly, electric heat would be stable or even reduced. "The decrease in cost of electricity some months ago was apparently only an election gimmick," he complained.

Two Unions

Pulp Pact In '68

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers said Tuesday their union will probably merge with the United Papermakers' and Paperworkers' Union sometime in 1968.

Henry Lorrain, the international's Canadian director, said in an interview an inter-union committee on merger plans has been making good progress.

"There appears to be very little area of difference to be resolved," he said. "We will be meeting again in two months and if there is a final meeting of the minds, we will be able to submit an understanding to the convention of both unions in 1968."

MANY YEARS

The two unions have had a working agreement in Canada for many years under which they bargain jointly for new contracts. Mr. Lorrain said amalgamation would eliminate duplication of union activities. If the merger goes through, the new united organization will have 315,000 members in Canada and the U.S. under one union leadership. The single union would include about 51,000 Canadians.

BITTER SCRAP

The international is engaged in a bitter jurisdictional battle with the breakaway Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, in this country and is facing similar problems with breakaway factions in the U.S. In Canada, the international is also facing a fight with the International Woodworkers of America, which is seeking to organize pulp mill workers on Vancouver Island.

Rail Crossing Crash

IWA Helps Petition

COURTENAY — Provision of facilities and aid in distributing a petition concerning warning have been offered by the IWA, Local 1-363, Courtenay.

Max Salter, union president, said residents of the district had contacted him following the tragic train-car crash March 31 which took the life of a mother and her three children.

The petition, which will be placed in stores and other areas available to the public for signature, is addressed to Lester Pearson, prime minister, and Premier Bennett, and is from these domiciled in Courtenay and district.

It asks for immediate action to activate the departments of highways, municipal affairs and transport as well as calling on public safety engineers for assistance to enable immediate action requiring the E & N

Railroad to install railroad crossing safety warning devices at all public road crossings within the city of Courtenay and district.

The petition further requests immediate action be taken to ensure regulations governing visibility at railway crossings be adhered to without exception, to avoid further unnecessary loss of life.

In making the announcement, Mr. Salter said many people had contacted him about a petition and the union had agreed to take the initiative in getting the matter underway without delay.

Barnett's Plea to Company:

'Clean Up the Canal'

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERT — Housing, recreation and pollution headed the list of topics under discussion with MP Tom Barnett over the weekend. Mr. Barnett, on a flying trip around parts of his constituency during the Easter break, had just returned from Alton, Uxbridge, Todmorden and other West Coast points.

"I notice an increasing sense of responsibility among the members of the band council," he said, referring to Indian settlements. "The time is coming when they will be ready to take charge of their own affairs."

New federal housing programs are still not operative, and financing for Indians, in particular, is still a problem, the MP said.

However, relocation assistance is available for those who wish to move to new locations where more employment is available, and relocation assistance in house building is available through the Department of Indian Affairs.

In the final estimates, he expects there will be legislation to deal with Indian housing off the reserve. Mr. Barnett said.

Mr. Barnett produced a sheaf of correspondence concerning the possible development of West Coast marine park.

"The federal government in establishing a national park is dependent on the will of the provincial government," Mr. Barnett claimed.

Today, with geological technology at a high level, it should be relatively easy to sort out possible valuable potential mineral areas, Mr. Barnett suggested.

Mr. Barnett wound up with a swing at the pollution of the Alberni Canal with industrial wastes, from MacMillan Bledel's Alup operation.

"Evidence shows that the plant has expanded to the point where commercial fishing has reached a crucial point.

"I am satisfied now it is feasible and possible for the company to clean up the canal."

Mr. Barnett suggested this could be done either by in-plant processes or by developing a holding pond where all effluent could be settled.

"They should look beyond the commercial aspects. The canal is a recreation area too that should be enjoyed by people of the area, although I doubt if it will ever return to the old days when family parties, including my own, went swimming and paddling off the point," Mr. Barnett said.

Courtenay council meeting this week. Acting mayor A. H. Strachan said he was "real pleased to see Courtenay and Cumberland co-operating at last."

Cumberland has a bylaw which forbids dogs to run at large but it no longer has a dogcatcher or pound facilities.

Recently a child was severely bitten while in the elementary school yard. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

Council referred a request for $100 toward the upkeep of the Anglican cemetery to the finance committee. The acting mayor said the money was "unfortunately omitted" from the budget. The finance committee received power to act on the matter.

City treasury continued to profit from police court fines with $1,855 turned in last month. RCMP reported the radar working well. In addition 60 parking tickets and 16 tickets for other offences were issued by the meter inspector.

COURTENAY — Cumberland and Courtenay have reached agreement on a proposal which will allow Cumberland to use the city dog pound facilities.

The protection committee of Harry Harris was given power to draw up the agreement which will be signed by the mayor and clerk-administrator.

A fee of $600 for the first year of use was set when council met this week to discuss the matter. An official letter from the village clerk was read at the meeting.

PREMIATURE

He warned that the Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell has cautioned building the municipal hall now would be premature and the best for the entire area would be total amalgamation.

Coun. Whitaker stressed that the new hall problem concerns more people in the South than taxpayers in the Chemainus and Crofton areas.

He said moving the municipal hall further away from Duncan, which is a focal point of an cohesive community, would lessen the chance of an amalgamation.

TEN LETTERS

Council also received 10 letters whose writers oppose the hall and 14 letters in favor of it. A total of 14 employees of the North Cowichan municipality at the Duncan office to a petition told council they are in favor of the hall proposal.

Two spokesmen, W. J. Wunderlick of Crofton Ratepayers Association and Louis Shelling of the Chemainus Ratepayers and Citizens Association spoke strongly in favor of the hall, and Coun. Whitaker launched his last attempt to prevent the building.

"Harsh, blitzkrieg programs usually result in the weight going up again," he added.

"Besides, you feel better and work better if you're not overweight," he concluded.

"Besides, you feel better and work better if you're not overweight," he concluded.

With the approval and backing of Nanaimo Pharmacist Association, there will be scrolls and centennial medallions as prizes.

The idea is to lose 100 ounces (six and a quarter pounds) in 100 days.

Anyone may enter, and if they have lost the required weight they become eligible for the awards.

To discourage those who have no real interest, the entry fee is 25 cents.

At the weigh-in Mr. Ney, who looks about as slim as anyone would want to be, found to his amazement he was a few pounds overweight himself, so he too entered the contest.

"I didn't know I was overweight until I weighed myself."

"A hundred ounces is not a harsh challenge," said Mr. Ney.

"Harsh, blitzkrieg programs usually result in the weight going up again," he added.

Some 23 people signed up for the contest in the first few hours.

Mayor Pete Maffeo and Ald. Mega McDougall were the first people onto the scales to start the program.

"Heart disease is a big killer," said Mr. Ney.

"According to my information, there is one chance in 80 for the average person to suffer a heart ailment, but one chance in five for people who are overweight."

"Besides, you feel better and work better if you're not overweight," he concluded.

This Beats Logging Any Day

His logging operation is still snowed in, so Bill Thomas of Duncan goes fishing in Cowichan River. Despite lack of bites early in day, this job still beats wading through snow in woods.

One Honey of a Mess

It Was a Real Stickup!

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — Someone should have told Bessie Dane not to feed the bees because she had to learn all about that the hard way.

It all happened because Mrs. Dane found a lot of bees out on the compost heap.

"Oh, poor little things! They're hungry," she told her husband, Doug, Dane. "We must feed the bees. They are needed to pollinate the flowers and garden in general."

Bessie found dishes and filled them with syrup, took them out and was received with a hum of joy as the bees dived for the sweet dishes.

The trouble here was that the bees all clustered one on top of the other and the underdog — or bee rather — got all muddled up with sticky syrup and could not move. Honey they can handle, but syrup! That was a real stickup.

"Oh, poor little things," said Bessie again. "They need a bath."

So she gave the stuck-up bees a bath (a new idea for bee-keepers perhaps?)

It worked beautifully. The bathed bees recovered use of their wings and went back to feeding.

But that wasn't the end of Mrs. Dane's troubles.

Later on, the Danes found several dozen bees invading the house.

"Oh, poor little things," says warm-hearted Bessie once more and she put every poor little thing out of doors.

Next thing the Danes knew, there weren't only dozens of bees in the house — there were THOUSANDS! They were everywhere, had even taken over the beds, chairs and what have you.

This time Doug ran for the Raid to repel the invasion, and Bessie phoned neighbor Art Hepburn, who is a veteran at bee keeping.

"DON'T feed the bees!" exclaimed Florence Hepburn, who answered the phone. "If you do, you'll have trouble!"

NOW she tells them!

So while Doug was busy with the spray, Bessie collected all her little dishes of syrup.

"Take the food away and the bees will go away," advised Art Hepburn.

Now with Raid, a broom and advice, and a thorough housecleaning, the situation is getting back to normal at the Dane residence.

But things surely hummed around there for a while!

Five of Six Passengers Receive Minor Injuries

DUNCAN — Five of six passengers in a car received minor injuries after the late-model vehicle rolled down an embankment on Miller Road Sunday morning.

The car was totally demolished. Driver of the vehicle, Bruce Seward, 18, was not injured.

The five passengers were David Joseph, 22, Lauren Johnny, 18, David Malcolm, all of Duncan, and Lorne Jones, 16, and Cody Jones, 16, both from Nanaimo.

Seward appeared before Magistrate George Hallett Monday and pleaded guilty to driving without due care, with no licence and with no insurance.

He was remanded until a later date for a pre-sentence report.

"When you are 21 what are you going to be, a drunk?" asked Magistrate Hallett as he fined Michael John Durlinger, 19, for being a minor in possession.

Durlinger was a passenger of a vehicle checked on Tzouhalem Road the afternoon of March 24. He and a friend, Terrence Wayne Grit, 19, also charged with being a minor in possession, were checked while having trouble starting their car.

Both youths have been charged with this offence before. They were fined $50 each.

A Duncan man, Lamber Johnny, was fined $100 for driving on the left side of the road.

He was involved in a motor vehicle accident on Tzouhalem Road March 5.

Ethel Mary Jimmy, also of Duncan, was fined $25 for crossing a double solid line.

She was charged after the vehicle she was driving was observed weaving over the white line on Trans-Canada Highway.

She stated she had nearly fallen asleep.

Melvin John Munson, 22, of 311 St. Julien Street, Duncan, was fined $50 for failing to yield half the roadway.

He said he was navigating a corner when he saw a woman "in the middle of the road."

"I looked my brakes."

"My car could not go around the corner and it slid into her side," said Munson.

Magistrate Hallett stated, "These kind of accidents are really inexcusable."

Total estimated damage to vehicles was $1,000.

Mathew Elliot was fined $10 for failing to obey a traffic signal.

He was checked on the crosswalk in front of Tzouhalem Hotel about 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

Ronald Vincent Alphonse was fined $25 for being intoxicated in a public place.

He was charged following a complaint that he had "passed out" in a cafe.

Ronald Seymour, 36, Duncan, also pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place.

He was charged after he was observed "staggering" up Trunk Road.

A Duncan and a Nanaimo man were both fined $25 for causing a disturbance.

Terry McKay and Charles Seward were charged April 2 after they were found fighting near Allenby Road.

Douglas Sloan Hawkins, Duncan, was fined $300 for impaired driving. His licence was suspended for 90 days.

William Chorniewsky, Duncan, was fined $50 for being a minor in possession. He was a passenger of one of five cars checked at Quamichan Lake March 23.

Racing Strip Bucked

COBBLE HILL — The idea for a drag-racing strip in this area again is being vigorously opposed by the Meredith Road Citizens' Committee.

The committee, through its solicitors, Tuesday released the following statement on the situation:

"They (the solicitors) again have been instructed to take action as latest indications are that an area individual has intentions of using the area for drag-racing purposes."

"It is the intention of the solicitors to apply for an injunction as soon as possible to prevent the area from being used for drag-racing purposes, provided it is the individual's intention to do this."

'They Are Getting Darn Good Wage'

DUNCAN — Salary increases for 1967 for International Woodworkers of America employees of School District 65 range from a low of 4.9 per cent to a high of 12.9.

Commenting on the increase at the regular monthly meeting, Trustee Joe Frumento said, "These fellows are getting a darn good wage for the work they are doing."

He felt many times the board overlooked extra fringe benefits not included with the salary.

Chairman of Cowichan School Board Neil Dornier said, "They are very honest wages."

"We are still on a slightly lower basis than some other places — Alberni and Nanaimo."

Cowichan monthly wage for a bus driver mechanic is $542.88, an increase of $62.01.

Trustees approved temporary borrowing of three lots of money — $40,500, Referendum No. 7; $33,900, Referendum No. 9; and $10,000, Referendum No. 10, pending approval from the department of education.

The board approved — Fred Schultz, Nanaimo, be appointed architect for extension and addition to school board office building; Referendums 8 and 9, at $15,300 and $33,000; tenders be called for a back hoe and gang mower, $7,980.

The board will continue its policy of hiring four university students for summer employment.

It approved acquisition of property for relocation of the maintenance and bus facilities.

It also received resignations from three teachers Heather Allister, Mrs. P. Skolas and Mrs. J. McEachern.

Trustee Jack Bailey will attend a public relations

Lively Party

Spiders, Crabs In Form

FULFORD — An upside-down card party on April 1, All Foot's Day, almost turned into a riot at Nan's Coffee Bar on Saturday night.

There were only four and a half tables but Mrs. McManus Sr., who convenes these parties for the WI, had, with help from various sources, placed synthetic spiders, crabs and other vile-looking reptiles around, which gave the people quite a turn at times, especially when a large spider was seen sitting on top of the refreshments.

The winners: Gladys Shaw won the women's first prize. Mrs. Violet McClaron won the booby. Mike Gyves won the men's first. A. McManus Sr. won men's consolation.

In bridge, George Robertson took first place. In cribbage, Sharon McManus again won the prize.

As George Robertson is leaving Fulford to live in Mission, the WI gave him a little farewell gift with good wishes in his new home.

Here come the swingers!

Out:

Favreau, Cardin

In:

Trudeau, Chretien

Rising:

Turner, Gordon

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Pearson cabinet has a swinging new look today following a shuffle in which Prime Minister

Lester Pearson revitalized its Quebec representation. Out went Guy Favreau, 50, president of the Privy Council and registrar general, and Lucien Cardin, 48, Minister of justice.

In came Pierre Elliott Trudeau, 46, a wealthy, dashing bachelor, as minister of justice, and Jean Chretien, 33, as minister without portfolio. And John Turner, the 37-year-old lawyer with the Kennedy image, was promoted from minister without portfolio to registrar-general. Another minister without portfolio, Walter Gordon, 61, was promoted to president of the Privy Council. Both Mr. Cardin and Mr. Favreau resigned their posts because of poor health. Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons that Mr. Favreau will become a judge of the superior court of Quebec. Mr. Cardin's plans are unknown. In a tribute to their service, Mr. Pearson noted the "unselfish and devoted service to Canada of these two old and true friends of mine. "I benefited as prime minister very greatly indeed from the wise counsel and firm friendship of these two men." Continued on Page 7

Host Post Vacated

Because the National Broadcasting Company has used reruns of old shows in the current television strike, Johnny Carson, host of the Tonight show, has told NBC he considers his contract for $500,000 yearly job broken. Network says "No."

Grits Load Lineup With Youth

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The key member in the new Pearson Liberal cabinet is a prolific left-wing writer and commentator who is noted for wearing colorful cravats instead of ties, and sandals instead of shoes. Moreover, Pierre Elliott Trudeau says he will remain a swinger, and won't change his clothes.

Other key figures are:

- John Napier Turner, 37-year-old lawyer and Rhodes Scholar, who got more than a cabinet promotion—a major boost into the Liberal leadership race.
- Jean Chretien, 33, a young man on the move and second youngest cabinet member in Canadian history. (Charles Hibbert Tupper was three months younger when he was appointed in 1888.)

$250,000 Theft In B.C. Bank

VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman bank accountant Tuesday was charged with stealing about $250,000 from the Bank of Montreal where she worked. Mrs. Grace Fisher, 42, is alleged to have stolen the money since Jan. 1, 1967.

Tie Was Tip-Off

Posing for pictures with Trudeau after the swearing-in, Prime Minister Pearson suddenly said, with a big smile: "Did you hear what a bright young executive assistant said this morning? He said Trudeau must be going into the cabinet — he's wearing a tie!"

"And shoes," interjected John Turner. Trudeau, 46, smiled, blushed under his ski tan, and looked down at his conservative, dark blue garb, but allowed he would keep his swinger image intact. But, the new justice minister added, "Remember it's the solicitor general who looks after swinging (hanging) now."

The Mount Royal member has impressive credentials: a law degree from Montreal, master of political science, Harvard, and post-graduate work at the University of Paris and London School of Economics. In 1963, he bitterly assailed Pearson for accepting nuclear weapons.

Trudeau is the second of Quebec's Three Wise Men (with Manpower Minister Jean Marchand) to make the cabinet. Still a backbencher is Gerard Pelletier. All backed Quebec's Quiet Revolution under Liberal Jean Lesage, but openly backed NDP policies at the national level, until swinging behind Pearson in the last election.

Mr. Trudeau, brilliantly bilingual, is a confirmed nationalist who argues that even a separate status for Quebec would be fatal to Confederation.

As justice minister, he will revamp the Criminal Code, administrative law and constitutional matters. John Turner needed only experience and exposure to move from dark horse to serious contender in the leadership race.

Michener's First View of New Job:

'A REPRESENTATIVE OF ALL CANADA'

By DAVID VAN PRAAGH

NEW DELHI (Special) — Daniel Roland Michener, Canada's new governor-general, said early Wednesday he hopes he will be regarded as the representative of the whole Canadian people as well as the Queen's representative in Canada.

He strongly defended Canada's constitutional monarchy in a changing world, and the Commonwealth idea of inter-racial co-operation. Mr. Michener talked to me of his conception of the role of governor-general in his office as Canada's high commissioner in India, the most populous member of the Commonwealth. He will relinquish that post in time to return to Canada before the opening of Expo 67 on April 28.

"One doesn't aspire to this role—it is not an elective office and it is not the kind one imagines for himself—and I am still a bit incredulous that this has befallen me," he said. He said the new post represents a "rather awesome prospect."

Symbol of Continuity

It was after 1 a.m. Wednesday in New Delhi when the announcement of Michener's appointment was made to the House of Commons in Ottawa by Prime Minister Pearson. While the announcement was not unexpected here, Michener never took it for granted.

He sat calmly in a chair in his comfortable office, which directly adjoins the high commissioner's residence, and put slowly but surely into words his reactions on being named the third Canadian-born governor-general.

"My wife and I are deeply conscious of the honor of being chosen by Her Majesty as her representative."

Top Tories Tackle Same Hellyer Song

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, Tuesday accused Defence Minister Hellyer of making the same false statements over and over again.

He said in the Commons that the minister thinks that if he repeats something, no matter how false, often enough the public will believe it.

Gordon Churchill, another former Conservative defence minister, said he does not see how the Commons can carry on a serious debate on armed forces unification if it is going to be faced by statements by Mr. Hellyer which are "palpably untrue."

Mr. Hellyer said he would reply at a later date to Mr. Harkness' "spurious allegations."

He said he is sick of hearing the former minister's "repetitious nonsense" and "vague generalities" which he could not prove.

The exchange came as the Commons went into its second day of debate on the government's unification bill.

Mr. Harkness said he had already proved his statements by quoting figures of the auditor-general and those supplied by the defence department itself.

He said Mr. Hellyer has claimed that he was making big savings.

ONE EXCEPTION
But he had not saved the taxpayer anything. Defence expenditures had gone up every year, with one exception, since the Liberals had taken office in 1963.

The armed forces had 20,000 fewer men now than four years ago. There were not enough sailors to man all the ships and not enough soldiers to fill the infantry battalions.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had tried to show in the Commons defence committee, by use of a "false" chart, that expenditures for weapons had risen.

SMALLER PROPORTION
But weapons expenditures, as shown by the auditor-general's report, represented a smaller proportion of the defence budget in each of the last four years than in 1961-62 when the Conservatives were in office.

Mr. Harkness said Mr. Hellyer had made a deliberate attempt to deceive the public by saying recruiting last year was higher than in 1965 and 1964. Recruiting was slightly higher in 1966 than in the previous two years but they were the poorest years since 1950.

Natal Coalmen Follow Instinct to Mine

Cave-In, Death—Then Back to Work

Wear miner Arnold Webster

NATAL, B.C. (CP) — Many of Natal's coal miners swore off their trade Monday after an underground explosion which killed 15 men, but prepared Tuesday to follow "instinct" and return to the mines.

"Cave-ins and deaths," said John Hardy, 61, of Coleman, Alta., who left the mine five minutes before the blast, "but in a day or so you all go back in again."

Bud Morgan, 33, of Natal, whose rescue team hauled out four bodies, summed up the comments of many in this grimy Crowsnest Pass town: "Hell, you can drive down a road and get killed."

Meanwhile, preparations were made for funerals — a mass funeral was being considered for Thursday — and money began to pour into a disaster fund to assist the victims' families. Only one was single.

Shock still hung over this community of 800, destined to be closed within a year, following its first major disaster.

B.C. Boosts Fund With $25,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government Tuesday donated $25,000 to the Natal mine disaster appeal fund.

The donation followed a meeting between Premier Bennett and Mines Minister Brothers on the latter's return from Natal.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering federal aid to the families of the 15 Natal mine victims, Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

All Commons In Favor

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — An RCAF Yukon flier to New Delhi, India, on Monday to bring home Canada's governor-general designate, Roland Michener.

Mr. Michener will be sworn in as Canada's third native-born governor-general in the Senate chamber on Monday, April 17. Then he will inspect a guard of honor on Parliament Hill, step into a landau and be driven to his new home, Rideau Hall.

The appointment, a foregone conclusion, was acclaimed by all parties in the Commons Tuesday.

It ended the month-long guessing game about the successor to the late Governor-General Vanier.

In the Commons, speaker after speaker indicated that Mr. Michener has large boots to fill.
